Duke and Wallis Sign Contract; Details Secret

Believed Property Agreement in Case of Separation, Death REMOVE OBSTACLES French Official Agrees To Dispense With Posting Banns

Monts, France—(U)—Herman L. Rogers, spokesman for the duke of Windsor and Wallis Warfield, declared tonight that Mrs. Warfield would become "her royal highness" upon her June 3 wedding.

"She will be H.R.H. by noon on June 3," said Rogers.

He intimated the British government has acceded to the duke's demands that his future duchess have the title.

Some persons believed there had been a compromise, that the "H. R. H." represented the only concession the government was willing to make. Edward had asked also that members of the royal family come to the ceremony. But they will stay away.

BELGIUM HONORS HIM
Berlin—(U)—Fritz Kreisler, the violinist, today was given the plaque of a grand officer of the order of Leopold by the Belgian minister, Count Jacques Davignon.

Monts, France—(U)—The duke of Windsor made known today that he and Mrs. Wallis Warfield have signed a contract of marriage, presumably for disposition of property in the event of death or separation after their June 3 wedding.

Herman L. Rogers, spokesman for the couple, said the contract was signed yesterday under British law, but its provisions would not be disclosed.

Rogers added his personal opinion that the members of the royal family were absenting themselves from the duke's marriage because "the king (George VI) was advised not to send anyone."

The British government has contended that the wedding should be a private ceremony, without royal representation.

State's Attorney Maurice Carcasone of Tours removed the last remaining obstacles to the marriage today.

A representative of the French ministry of justice, he granted the duke's wedding application, including permission to dispense with posting banns and a special authorization for a civil ceremony at the Chateau de Candé.

Mayor Gets Papers
The papers were delivered to Mayor Charles Mercier of Monts, who immediately notified the man and woman he expects to marry.

French law requires legal publication of banns—or notice of intention to wed—15 days before the ceremony in the town hall.

Removal of marriage registers from town halls also is prohibited by French law, hence for the ceremony outside the town hall at the Chateau de Candé.

The invitation list and names of the wedding witnesses were expected to be announced late today or tomorrow, now that the last legal hurdles have been cleared.

Overcast skies and flooded lowlands about the castle again kept the abdicated British monarch and his fiancée indoors and Herman L. Rogers, their spokesman, said they expected to remain there the entire day.

Double Wedding Party
A double wedding party to get around the absence of members of the British royal family was understood to have been planned. One party would be at Candé after the ceremony, and the other at Wasserloren in Austria, where the duke of Kent and the princess royal, Windsor's brother and sister, were expected to join Edward and his bride shortly after the marriage.

Prince Paul of Yugoslavia, a close friend of the duke, also was reported planning to attend the second celebration.

Ten rooms at the Chateau de Candé, where Windsor and Mrs. Warfield are staying, were being prepared for overnight guests to the wedding. The number was not expected to exceed a baker's dozen.

Planes Renew Attack While Fascists Gain

Insurgents Advancing Upon Final Fortifications of Bilbao

SEVERE FIGHTING

Two Captured German Airmen Accused of Rebellion and Murder

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier—(U)—Insurgent General Franco's big black bombers flew back to the attack on hard pressed Bilbao today, with only a half separating the insurgent armies at devastated Amorebieta and Bilbao's iron ring of final fortifications.

Sunny skies gave the signal for the takeoff, and for forenoon the big planes were shuttling rapidly between their base and the scenes of their bombardment.

The rain-soaked ground was drying to permit a new infantry advance.

In Bilbao, Basque capital, the defenders ordered two captured German airmen, Captain Walter Kienel and Lieutenant Gunter Schulze, to appear before a popular tribunal tomorrow on charges of rebellion and murder.

Try to Preserve Line
Harassed defenders of Bilbao backed down the main highway from Amorebieta, fighting constantly to keep General Emilio Mola from splitting the De Callo line in which the Basque capital placed its last hope for survival.

Advised from the beleaguered capital of the semi-autonomous Basque republic said its militiamen set up a new front immediately behind the smoking ruins of Amorebieta, at a point about eight miles east and slightly south of Bilbao.

From the barricades across the Amorebieta road, rear-guard militiamen struggled to hold back Mola's encroaching, semi-motorized forces while the main body of the Basques fell back to join reserves at Galdacano, pivot of the De Callo fortifications at the southeastern gates of the city.

Conflicting Charges
Basque commanders pictured Amorebieta as a "new altar of sacrifice" for the defense of the republic. A Bilbao radio broadcast said insurgent planes dumped loads of incendiary bombs on the town but an insurgent broadcast claimed Amorebieta had been systematically fired and dynamited before the Basques evacuated.

The insurgent warriors swirled around the devastated town, nine miles from Bilbao on the improved road from Durango, and seized it from its last scant defenders in a torrential downpour yesterday.

Insurgents reported that the Basques spread terror through Amorebieta already fear-stricken civilians before they fled to Mola's town. The Basques were said to have splashed gasoline on many of the better houses and fired them with hand grenades.

The normal population of Amorebieta was 5,000.

Mola's officers declared the Basques herded all the civilian men of the town with them in their retreat toward the last line of defense at Galdacano. Galdacano is about three miles from Bilbao's outskirts.

Soil Payments Extension Voted

Roosevelt Gets Bill Empowering Secretary Until 1942

Washington—(U)—The senate passed and sent to the White House today a bill to extend until 1942 power of the secretary of agriculture to make soil conservation payments direct to producers.

The measure was approved without a record vote, after the senate had rejected an amendment by Minority Leader McNary (R-Or.) to limit the extension to two years.

The four-year extension bill passed the house with little debate. The house agriculture committee said it was designed to give state legislatures more time to enact legislation designed to carry out the original purpose of administering the soil conservation act through grants to states.

O'Malley Indian Bill Put Before Committee

Washington—(U)—The house Indian affairs committee overrode an adverse report of its subcommittee today and agreed to consider a bill by Representative Thomas O'Malley (D-Mich.) intended to repeal part of the Wheeler-Howard act authorizing the Indian bureau authority to give preference to Indians in employment.

A subcommittee had recommended indefinite postponement. O'Malley declared he had been out of the city when the committee acted and was not given a hearing.

He introduced the bill he said, after he received complaints that in some cases the bureau had granted wage increases or promotions to Indian employees who had been employed for a shorter period than white workers in similar positions.

O'Malley charged the authority granted by the act was "being abused."

Action of the whole committee on the measure was postponed until a report is received from the Indian department on its promotions and wage increases.

Expect Roosevelt's Move For Wage and Hour Laws To Delay End of Session

2 Major Changes Are Announced in State Department

Washington—(U)—President Roosevelt announced today two important state department personnel changes today, sending to the senate the nominations of Sumner Welles of Maryland to be undersecretary of state and R. Walton Moore of Virginia to be department counselor.

Welles and Moore now are serving as assistant secretaries of state. Welles was named to the undersecretaryship which has been vacant since William Phillips was appointed ambassador to Italy last year.

Welles has been connected with the diplomatic service approximately half of his 44 years, beginning as secretary of embassy at Tokyo.

Moore, who is 78 and a resident of Fairfax, Va., served as a Democratic member of the house, from 1919 to 1931.

The president also nominated John Cudahy of Wisconsin, as minister of the Irish Free State; Alvin Mansfield Owsley of Texas as minister to Denmark, and Edwin L. Neville of Ohio as minister to Siam.

Livestock Buyers License Measure Is Hit at Hearing

Farmers and Packers Appear in Opposition Before Senate Group

Madison—(U)—A senate bill to license and bond all livestock buyers aroused opposition of both packers and farmers at a hearing yesterday before the senate committee on agriculture and labor.

Oscar Toebeas, Madison attorney for fire packing companies operating in the state, said the measure is so drastic it would ruin the packers that are engaged in direct marketing, and would force all farmers to ship their livestock to St. Paul or Chicago.

M. W. Swanton, Madison, representing the Wisconsin Council of Agriculture and the Equity Livestock Shipping association, told the committee that as seller of livestock he had received fair treatment from the packers and that "there is no cause for action."

J. D. Semrad, Escanaba, of the farmers' joint legislative committee, was the only witness in behalf of the bill. He said it would provide inspection for those plants not supervised by the federal government, and that it would "remove the curse of direct marketing" of livestock to packers.

He said both organizations represented by Swanton had gone on record two years ago in favor of a similar bill.

The senate bill, introduced by Semrad's request, would require livestock buyers to pay an annual license fee of $10 and post a $5,000 surety bond. Other provisions would install state weighers at those plants where 150 or more head of livestock are slaughtered daily—the cost to be paid by the buyers—and require complete daily reports to the department of agriculture and markets showing the grade, weight and price of each animal.

Vetoes New York City Theater License Bill

Albany, N. Y.—(U)—Governor Lehman vetoed today the Dunning bill, designed to empower the New York city commissioner of licenses to revoke without a court action the permit of any theater showing a play he deemed objectionable.

"While fully appreciative of the high purpose of those supporting this bill," the executive said, "and while warmly joining in the desire to maintain the theater on a proper moral plane, it nevertheless seems to me that the specific provisions of this bill are too broad and too susceptible of abuse in administration."

The measure was described by its proponents during debate in the legislature as clothing the New York city administration with broader powers to clamp down on "striptease" burlesque.

Cardinal Hits At Hitler and Nazi Germany

Mundelein Calls Fuehrer 'Austrian Paperhanger and a Poor One'

GOEBBELS ANGERED

Cardinal Says It Would be 'Cowardly if We Take This Lying Down'

BULLETIN

Vatican City—(U)—Vatican prelates, replying to German newspaper demands that the holy see act to retract a speech by George Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago assailing Adolf Hitler and his attitude toward the church, said tonight the cardinal had every right to speak his own mind.

Chicago—(U)—Clergy and laity of the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago were stirred today by a scathing assault on Nazi Germany made by their prelate, George Cardinal Mundelein, who termed Adolf Hitler "an Austrian paperhanger and a poor one at that."

The cardinal, addressing more than 500 members of the clergy at the quarterly diocesan conference, accused Nazi officials yesterday of fostering "malicious propaganda" against the church, and declared it would be "cowardly if we take the lying down."

The address brought prompt reaction in Berlin from German Protestant Minister Joseph Goebbels' newspaper Der Angriff, which asked:

"Does the holy see permit its Chicago bishop to vilify Germany without retraction? That is our most pressing question."

Clergy Stirred
Stirred by the cardinal's declaration that the German government through its crooked minister of propaganda is giving out anti-religious stories that make wanton atrocity tales seem like "bedtime stories" in comparison, the clergymen asked that he fix a day on which they might inform parishioners of the church's difficulties with the government.

The cardinal traced what he said was the background of the "immorally trials" in Germany and said there was "no guarantee that the battle front may not stretch some day into our own land."

"Hodie mini cras tibi. (Mine today, yours tomorrow). The fight is to take the children away from us. If we show no interest in this matter now; if we shrug our shoulders and mutter, 'well, maybe there is some truth in it,' or 'it is not our fight—' we don't back up the holy father, well, when our turn comes, we, too, will be fighting alone."

Cardinal Mundelein intimated Nazi officials command obedience by making every second person a government spy, destroying civil liberties and forcing youthful candidates for the religious life into work and military camps.

British Envoy for Reciprocal Pact

Says England Willing to Assure U. S. Farmer of 'Favorable Treatment'

New York—(U)—Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador to the United States, said today Great Britain is willing to assure the American farmer of "favorable treatment" in British markets in return for a reduction in the United States tariff on goods from the United Kingdom.

The ambassador said he was speaking "not as a diplomat" but "as the commercial representative of a country which does the largest trade with the United States, in other words as your best customer."

Sir Ronald also said he "earnestly hoped" a reciprocal trade agreement, now in the course of negotiation, would be concluded between the United States and Great Britain.

At the same time, the Argentine ambassador, Felipe A. Espil, said that Argentina's exchange restrictions affecting United States exports to the South American country may be eliminated if a similar reciprocal trade pact between the two nations is signed.

Both Sir Ronald and Ambassador Espil were speakers at the world Trade Luncheon in observance of "National Foreign Trade Week."

The former quoted 1935-36 figures showing that the United Kingdom bought United States merchandise valued at $226,000,000 and sold only $228,000,000 worth in this country—a difference of $58,000,000.

In another address, Francis D. Sayre, assistant secretary of state, said if the world is to be saved from war governments must adopt constructive and cooperative commercial policies such as will make for peace.

1,200 Men Fighting to Control Forest Fire

Deadwood, S. D.—(U)—A forest fire, whipped by a 20-mile an hour wind, spread over a three mile front in the Black Hills national forest five miles southeast of here today while 1,200 men fought to control the flames.

CCC workers from Camp Harney, the Black Hills forest, and soil conservation projects as well as employees of the Homestake mine battled the fire which was reported to cover 1,200 acres.

Court Bill Foes Claim Roosevelt Measure Is Dead

NOT SEEKING POST

One of the men most frequently mentioned as a possible successor to Willis Van Devanter, associate justice of the supreme court who announced his retirement, was Robert H. Jackson (above), 45-year-old assistant attorney general. Jackson, however, has said that he does not wish to be considered. Many senators have expressed the opinion that Senator Robinson of Arkansas would be appointed.

Stove Explosion Sets Home Afire; Child Perishes

Mother Saves Sister's Baby In Belief That It Is Her Own

Milwaukee—(U)—Daniel Ness, four months old, died in the blazing kitchen of a four family frame home last night while his mother rescued her sister's baby in the belief it was Daniel.

Eleven members of the Dewey Ness and Clyde Van Hoesen families, seven of them children, were visiting Mrs. Herbert Howell when a gasoline stove exploded and showered the tiny kitchen with a cascade of liquid fire.

In the resulting confusion Mrs. Dewey Ness rushed to the davenport where she had laid Daniel beside Nancy Van Hoesen, 1 child of her sister, a fellow tenant.

"The flames were all over," she told firemen. "I couldn't see. I grabbed for the place where I had left Danny a few minutes before and ran down the stairs. Then I saw I had Nancy in my arms."

Futile Rescue Attempt
Her cry when she discovered her mistake sent James Howell, 12, and Dewey Ness, father of the dead baby, back into the house, but the raging fire prevented them from saving Daniel.

Ness, Mrs. Van Hoesen, 22, and her children, Dickey, 4, Roger, 3, and Nancy, were treated at the Emergency hospital for burns.

Firemen extinguished the blaze before it destroyed the structure. The explosion occurred while Mrs. Ness and her sister, Mrs. Van Hoesen, prepared meals in the kitchen where they shared.

"Everything happened so quickly," said Mrs. Ness. "It was not until we were actually out of the house that I saw that I had Nancy. My husband thought I had taken Danny out."

"All the other children in the building were saved—all but sonny Dewey. He tried so hard to get back into the house to get sonny, but it was too late."

2 Floods Hit Alaskan Town; Homes Deserted

Fairbanks, Alaska—(U)—Two ice-laden floods overran Nenana in quick succession and left the town paralyzed today.

The ice-choked Tanana river swept into Nenana, 50 miles southwest of Fairbanks, yesterday as residents were beginning to clear up the debris from Monday's flood. Each time the river covered virtually the entire town. Homes were deserted, schools closed and business suspended.

Telephoned aid came said the water again was dropping but, with warm weather melting snow and ice, the danger was far from past.

Ice on the Yukon's tributaries overflowed rapidly in a temperature of about 65 degrees.

Coroner Finds Woman Killed in Barn by Bull

Neillsville, Wis.—(U)—Coroner C. Ludovic announced today that Mrs. Otto Spiegelberg, 33, found dead in the barn of her husband's farm near Chili yesterday, had been killed by a bull. The animal, tied with the neck with a rope, broke loose and trampled the woman to death. The coroner concluded after an investigation.

Logan Compromise Plan May be Center of Senate Debate

FLEXIBLE PROPOSAL

Robinson Mentioned as Possible Successor To Van Devanter

Washington—(U)—Victorious senate foes of the Roosevelt court bill turned away from indications of administration compromise today in pursuit of a triumph on the senate floor as decisive as the adverse vote in the judiciary committee.

Opposition leaders said the measure was dead. They forecast the compromise advanced unsuccessfully in the committee by Senator Logan (D-Ky.) would prove the new fighting ground.

Logan, a supporter of the president, suggested that one additional justice be appointed each year if any members of the supreme court served past 75. The number would drop back to nine when the older justices retired.

The Roosevelt bill would permit an increase up to a membership of 15 if justices over 70 did not withdraw. The court would remain permanently at the number to which it was raised.

Robinson for Plan
No one qualified to speak for the administration had conceded that the battle for the president's bill had been dropped, but Logan said his compromise was favored by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader.

This quickly led to speculation whether Robinson was back-tracking from the "no compromise" edict he uttered on the White House steps after President Roosevelt's resignation last week, or was trying to negotiate a compromise without committing the chief executive.

Opposition leaders and many others were convinced the latter theory was correct. Robinson kept away from the capitol yesterday after the committee voted 10 to 8, against the bill.

Congressional interest in the judiciary situation was divided almost equally between speculation over the administration's position and candidates for the vacancy on the supreme court created by the retirement of Justice Van Devanter.

Robinson Favored
Many senators expressed the view Senator Robinson would be appointed. Senators Pittman (D-Nev.) openly advocated it. A score of other names were mentioned, among them Robert H. Jackson, assistant attorney general, who said he did not wish to be considered.

Mr. Roosevelt told his press conference he had not yet considered a successor. Asked if the retirement would affect the court bill, he said there was no news on that point.

Van Devanter's retirement increased the belief of many congressmen, however, that the administration was willing to modify the court bill. It broke up the solid minority of four justices that has so often proposed New Deal measures and against which friends of the bill have leveled their heaviest fire.

Indications that the administration supporters on the judiciary committee would submit a minority report upholding the measure increased the belief of many congressmen, however, that the administration was willing to modify the court bill. It broke up the solid minority of four justices that has so often proposed New Deal measures and against which friends of the bill have leveled their heaviest fire.

Ready in Week
A subcommittee of three members of the committee majority set to work drafting the adverse report.

Dog, Hero of Many Rescues, in Fatal Attack Upon Child

Grenoble, France—(U)—A great Saint Bernard, noted for its rescue feats, rushed down the snowy slope from the storied monastery on Mount St. Bernard today and killed a 10-year-old girl before her father's eyes.

The little girl, Marianne Bremend, was on a skunk trap near her home at Cheresval, Switzerland, with her father and her two sisters.

She was so severely bitten that she died shortly after monks from the hospice drove off the dog and administered first aid. Her father was unable to save her.

Monks were at a loss to explain the assault. It never had happened before. They said the dog in question was "known for its good disposition."

New Buoys Will be Placed on Fox River

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau) Washington—Six new buoys will be placed along the Fox river to replace old cribs, the commerce department announces.

Three red barrel buoys and three black barrel buoys will be established along the river from Green Bay to Lake Winnebago. The old cribs formerly used for anchoring log booms, were removed by the Menasha Woodware Co., the department reports.

A correction on a notice issued by the department on March 12 is announced to the effect that the Oshkosh Reef Buoy 4 will not be re-numbered.

Board Engages 2 New Teachers for Next School Term

Maintenance Committee Authorized to Start School Repairs

Miss Barbara Fulton, Sturgeon Bay, and Miss Eleanor Thomas, Marshfield, last night were engaged by the board of education to fill vacancies in the public schools. Miss Helen Gilman next year will be transferred from the girls' physical education department at Wisconsin Junior High school to a similar position at the senior high school.

Miss Thomas, a graduate of Milwaukee Teachers college, will succeed Miss Olga Christensen who recently resigned as grade school art supervisor. Miss Thomas now holds a similar position at Marshfield. Miss Fulton will succeed Miss Katherine Royce in the senior high school home economics department.

Miss Fulton is a graduate of Stevens Point State Teachers college and now is teaching at Sturgeon Bay.

The board authorized the maintenance committee to start summer repairs and improvement on which bids are not necessary. The committee estimated that the work will cost about $15,000, which is $2,000 more than last year. Improvements planned at all schools include painting, repair of desks, some plastering and general inspection work.

Architects for the new senior high school were authorized to enlarge the fan room for the auditorium and Smith and Brandt, Appleton firm, was instructed to obtain data on a pipe tunnel for the auditorium.

Uncolored mortar will be used in constructing the new building, the board decided.

24 Scouts and Dads At Troop Steak Fry

Twenty-four Boy Scouts and their dads attended the troop 12 steak fry last night at Erb park. The dads and scoutleaders formed a softball team and played a scout squad before the steak fry. The troop dues collection has reached an all-time high with the introduction of bank night but the award was not won last night. The summer camping season at Gardner dam was considered by scouts before they closed the meeting with community singing.

Corn Crops Count As Soil Depleting

Decision on Conservation Program Rule Received By County Agent

Corn, sown alone or in mixtures with other forage crops, will count as soil depleting when the time arrives to determine claims for federal soil conservation payments, R. C. Swanson, county agent, has been informed.

Some farmers have asked that "corn hay" should not be counted as soil depleting where it could otherwise qualify as an emergency forage substitute for a soil conserving crop, but agricultural conservation officials have been advised that the present regulations do not recognize any distinction between "corn hay" and other corn.

With heavy losses of soil conserving crops in some sections, it is expected that many farmers may be tempted to plant unusually large acreages to corn. In considering the returns, however, committees are reminding them of the deductions that may be made if the total acreage of soil depleting crops exceeds the allotted soil depleting base.

Would Deed Submerged Land to City of Oshkosh

Madison—(P)—Assemblyman Leo T. Niemuth (R.), Oshkosh, introduced today a bill deeding to the city of Oshkosh submerged land in Miller's bay and Horseshoe island in Lake Winnebago.

Niemuth said the land would be used for a pier and breakwater, creating a harbor for boats. Assemblyman Reno Trege (P.), Merrill, proposed that the state acquire 274 acres in the city of Merrill for park purposes.

Another measure, sponsored by the conservation committee, would limit operation speed of snow plows equipped with mechanical flanges to not more than 25 miles an hour. Sponsors said the law would protect fences on narrow country roads.

Nurse Sues Sister and Sheriff For $50,000

Waukegan, Ill.—(P)—Mrs. Gertrude Robinson, 63, a Kenosha, Wis., nurse, filed suit for $50,000 in circuit court yesterday against her sister, Mrs. Annette Frank, wealthy Waukegan, Ill., widow, and Sheriff Lawrence Doolittle of Lake county.

The bill of complaint alleged Mrs. Robinson was shocked by confinement in the Lake county jail March 31 on a disorderly conduct charge preferred by her sister. The charge later was dismissed.

The strikers voted to evacuate the plant last night.

Scores Commerce Department for Denying Licenses

Chicago—(P)—Roscoe Turner, noted speed pilot, criticized the United States Department of Commerce today for refusing to issue licenses for the projected New York-to-Paris trans-Atlantic air race.

"Why, commercial aviation in the United States is built upon that kind of flying," Turner said in an interview. "The knowledge gained by the boys who had the nerve to stick out their necks has brought safety and regularity to scheduled air line operations."

Turner, who won the Harmon trophy in 1933 and the Thompson trophy in 1934 for speed flying, said the department's action "proved its inconsistency."

He said it granted Henry "Dick" Merrill a license to make "a real stunt flight" recently between the United States and England, and also has granted Amelia Earhart licenses for ocean flying.

Turner scoffed at statements by bureau officials that the proposed race was too hazardous.

Evacuate Plant After Long Sit-Down Strike

La Salle, Ill.—(P)—A sit-down strike of 174 weeks—one of the longest on record in the United States—ended today when 860 employees of the Matthiessen and Hegeler Zinc company evacuated the plant.

Negotiations to end the strike, which started Jan. 23 in a dispute over wages and redemption of employee-held stock, opened immediately after the last striker left his post.

The workers reported daily in three eight-hour shifts to play cards, sing, and enjoy themselves during the sit-down. Members of the International Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers union, they demanded a 25 per cent wage increase and cash redemption of nearly $250,000 worth of common stock given them in 1933 at the time their pay was reduced 40 per cent.

Federal Judge J. H. Wilkerson in Chicago has under advisement a ruling on the merits of the quarter-million dollar wage claim. Henry P. Chandler, special master in chancery, has filed in court a report recommending that the claims be denied.

To Study Referendum

An Appleton Chamber of Commerce committee composed of William E. Schubert, Roy Wort, Elmer Root and George Sweetman will meet at 4:30 this afternoon to study a referendum of the United States Chamber of Commerce which promises elimination of the long-and-short-haul clause from the Interstate Commerce act. The purpose of the referendum is to ascertain the opinion of commercial organizations of the country on the proposal. Action of the national chamber will be determined by the action of the various chambers of commerce throughout the country.

Catlin Charges WDA Measure Is Unconstitutional

See Certain Passage of 'Little TVA' Bill in Assembly

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) Madison — Assemblyman Mark Catlin Jr., (R), Appleton, Tuesday reiterated his conviction that the Biennial Wisconsin Development authority bill, now well on its way toward final passage in the assembly, is an encouragement by the state to a private corporation to carry out works of internal improvement, and therefore unconstitutional.

Proposed by administration Progressives as a step toward the reorganization of a public ownership power program, the WDA bill, commonly known as the "little TVA", has been the subject of bitter debate in the assembly for the last two weeks, but when it comes before the house Thursday morning as a special order of business, is expected to receive final approval.

Digging into early state history and the opinions of distinguished American jurists of the past, Catlin marshalled an array of arguments which he presented to his house colleagues during the debate on the bill to no avail. A dominant Progressive majority last week refused all limiting amendments, and yesterday triumphantly refused to reconsider the vote for engrossment. Tomorrow morning the bill will almost certainly receive its final blessing and will be swiftly messaged to the senate.

Unconstitutional? But Assemblyman Catlin remains convinced that the measure is a violation of the state constitution, and he is confident that a test will prove his belief. The only means through which the purposes of the WDA can be achieved, he believes, is through a constitutional amendment for the makers of the state constitution specifically forbade state encouragement of internal improvement by private parties when the constitution refused to write into the constitution the following section:

"There was a great deal of debate in the convention, but this provision was included in the first draft of the constitution," said Catlin. "This measure was defeated, and in the convention of 1847 which framed the present constitution, this clause was dropped out, and the present clause, prohibiting the state from engaging in works of internal improvement, was adopted."

The WDA bill, Catlin continued, "attempts to follow the clause which the farmers of our constitution rejected, rather than the clause which they finally adopted."

Quote Opinion

Catlin also quoted from an opinion by Chief Justice Marshall in which the famed justice wrote that there can be "no state connection with internal improvements."

It is Catlin's contention that since the constitution forbids the appropriation of state funds to private parties for works of internal improvement, the appropriation of $50,000 in the WDA bill is a clear violation of that constitutional restriction.

"The people of Wisconsin have indicated their willingness to amend the constitution when convinced there is a need for amendment," he concluded. "The question of engaging in other works of internal improvement is of such great importance to the people of the state and there is such grave doubt as to the constitutionality of the proposed legislation, that in my opinion, the duty of a member of the legislature to his constituents is to reject the proposed legislation and insist that a proper amendment to the constitution, covering the features involved in the proposed legislation, be submitted to the people."

Committee of C. of C.

An Appleton Chamber of Commerce committee composed of William E. Schubert, Roy Wort, Elmer Root and George Sweetman will meet at 4:30 this afternoon to study a referendum of the United States Chamber of Commerce which promises elimination of the long-and-short-haul clause from the Interstate Commerce act. The purpose of the referendum is to ascertain the opinion of commercial organizations of the country on the proposal. Action of the national chamber will be determined by the action of the various chambers of commerce throughout the country.

CONFIDENT COURT BILL WILL PASS

Shortly before the Senate judiciary committee reported unfavorably on President Roosevelt's court reorganization program, Senator Henry F. Ashurst (right), Arizona democrat and chairman of the committee, said retirement of Justice Willis Van Devanter "immensely promotes" passage of the bill. He is shown with Senator Pat McCarran, Nevada democrat, who opposed the bill.

Little Theater Players To Present Drama With Courtroom for Setting

THE story of Ivar Kreuger, Swedish match king and financial juggler, revealing the complicated failure of his international financial interests, and the rumor that he had only faked his death and really had departed for South America to live incognito and in luxury on a fortune that he had established there, is the basis of the play, "The Night of January 16," which will be presented by the Little Theater of the Fox River Valley Thursday and Friday evenings, May 27 and 28, at Outagamie county court house.

The subject of the play is a murder trial and an unusual feature of it will be the recruiting of 12 members of the audience to serve as jurors. These members will not be "planted" in the audience but will be chosen by lot. This play had a long run in New York two years ago and has toured the United States.

Unique Problem

The Little Theater, in presenting this play, has assumed a unique problem in production for the play will be given in its natural setting, a courtroom, and the audience will be in the same situation as any courtroom spectators at a genuine trial. There will be no curtains to separate the players from the audience or take away from the atmosphere of a real courtroom, the characters will simply walk into the room and take their places in the scene, the railing or out in the audience, as the case may be. At the conclusion of each act, court is adjourned and the players leave the room naturally and informally, like any group of witnesses, attorneys, newspaper men and women and court attendants.

With few exceptions, there will be no entrances or exits during the progress of the trial, the dramatic spotlight being centered on individuals as they take the stand and testify either for the prosecution or defense.

Rehearsals are being held almost nightly under the direction of Gilbert Hill, Menasha, this being his second production for the Little Theater.

Stichtman Held Sets High Mark in Milk Production

Registered Holsteins Average 50.1 Pounds of Butterfat in April

A herd of eight registered Holsteins owned by H. C. Stichtman, New London, set the pace in milk production for the Outagamie County Holstein Dairy Herd Improvement association No. 1 during April, averaging 1316 pounds of milk containing 50.1 pounds of butterfat.

Second place was taken by the 16 grade Holsteins owned by Harry Armitage, Dale, averaging 1409 pounds of milk containing 48 pounds of fat. Charles Carpenter, Hortonville, owns the 10 registered Holsteins which took third with an average of 1,121 pounds of milk and 41.9 pounds of butterfat while the grade Holstein herd of M. L. Keenan, Black Creek, and the Brown Swiss herd owned by Drevs Brothers, Larsen, placed fourth and fifth with butterfat averages of 41.4 and 37.6 pounds respectively.

A cow in the Carpenter herd set high individual mark of 1,893 pounds of milk containing 85.2 pounds of butterfat while another registered Holstein in the Stichtman herd placed second with 1,983 pounds of milk containing 75.4 pounds of fat.

11 Badger CCC Camps Will Close by June 1

Washington—(P)—Wisconsin's congressional delegation learned yesterday 11 civilian conservation camps in that state will be closed between now and June 1.

Senators Robert LaFollette, Jr., and F. Ryan Duffy, and several representatives received letters from Fred Morrell, acting chief of the forest service, saying camps at Eagle River, two at Phillips, and one each at Marengo, Hayward, Westboro, Newaid, Wabeno, Merrillan, Star Lake and Crivitz will be abandoned.

The reason given was that Wisconsin's quota of 350,000 CCC enrollees has fallen about 20,000 short and officials said it was not feasible to operate all camps efficiently.

Morrell made it clear no reductions would be made in the number of enrollees and said the Wisconsin action was part of the national program that contemplates shut-down of 60 camps.

Building Permits

Four building permits were issued yesterday by the building inspection department. Permits were granted to Ernest Kersten, 1708 W. Summer street, addition to residence, $75; Mrs. E. J. Gerharz, 553 N. Superior street, greenhouse, $15; Carl Egert, 519 W. Spring street, remodel garage, $50; Martin Verhagen, 222 E. Washington street, garage, $300.

Retirement of Van Devanter Has Raised Problem

Action of Justice Challenges Meaning of Sumners - McCarran Law

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Far from clarifying or even beginning to clarify the judicial situation, the "retirement from regular active service" of Justice Van Devanter of the supreme court has produced a number of grave complications.

For one thing, it means that, if no other justice follows Mr. Van Devanter's lead and if the president's proposed bill to enlarge the court should pass as he recommends it, the supreme court hereafter would consist of 14 justices instead of 15.

Thus, the court could conceivably divide 7 to 7 hereafter. This is because the president's bill provides that no additional justices shall be appointed alongside of any judge who, having reached the age of 70, gives notice of his intention to retire.

But apart from the creation of a court on an even number of justices—something that has happened only rarely in American history—there is another complication. It will be noted on examining Justice Van Devanter's letter that he did not use the word "resign." He followed closely the language of the Sumners-McCarran law passed by this session of congress and signed by Mr. Roosevelt on March 1, 1937. He wrote: "I desire to avail myself of the rights, privileges, and judicial service specified in the act of March 1, 1937, and to that end I hereby retire from regular active service on the bench."

Draws Full Pay
The purpose of the act was to allow a justice to retire and yet draw full pay, because when Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes resigned, an economy wave came along in congress and cut his salary in half. If, however, a judge remains in service as a member of the judicial branch of the government, the theory is that he has constitutional protection against having his salary diminished. For this constitution does not permit any judge's salary to be reduced by congress.

The Sumners-McCarran law was adopted in an effort to give justices who retired some sort of opportunity to continue in the status of judicial officers without actually cutting themselves off by a resignation. This is indeed analogous to the status of retired army officers, who are subject to recall.

In a letter to the New York Times last Sunday, Henry W. Taft, a brother of the late Chief Justice Taft, discussed these very points. He said: "This raises a question whether there can be a retirement which is not a resignation, and whether the function of a justice of the supreme court in participating in the exercise by the court of its judicial power under the constitution can be altered or limited by congress, even with the assent of the justice. Cannot be Held in Part

"The office held by a justice cannot be held in part; if he remains a justice of the supreme court and exercises any part of the powers conferred by the constitution, there is no vacancy, and there can be no 'successor' as provided in the Sumners-McCarran bill.

"The Sumners-McCarran bill also provides that a justice shall have the right to retire from regular active service on the bench. What does that mean? If he continues to be a justice of the supreme court, he has under the constitution the right to demand that he be allowed to sit with the court and perform his duties; and his oath of office to support the constitution, as well as the statutory oath requires that he should do so.

"Numerous other questions arise. How, under the constitution, can there be any judicial service which is not both 'regular' and 'active' as provided in the act? How can a man be a justice of the supreme court and not be counted to determine a majority? That would seem to be implicit in the performance of the judicial function 'vested in one supreme court'.

WORLD'S OLDEST ELEPHANT

"Billy Sunday", the oldest known living elephant in America will put in his appearance at Appleton when the Sells-Sterling circus shows here on June 4. Although his exact age cannot be determined, it is believed Billy probably is 300 or 400 years old. However, he is still lively enough to go from the cars to the show grounds and keep up with the balance of the herd.

of the continued service of a retired justice such as he may be willing to undertake. Can the performance of the function of a justice appointed under the constitution and still bound by his oath of office be made dependent upon his willingness to undertake it?

I have quoted Mr. Taft's letter at length because it states the complexities of the problem raised by Mr. Van Devanter's withdrawal from "regular active service" and challenges at once the meaning of the Sumners-McCarran law.

Are Senators Out?
In an entirely separate aspect, there is another complication. The constitution forbids the appointment of any member of the house or senate to any office which has been created during the term served by such members. Is the vacancy now created by Mr. Van Devanter's withdrawal a different kind of vacancy than that which could exist before March 1, 1937, and if it is will this not disqualify Senators Robinson of Arkansas or Wagner of New York or any of the other members of the present congress to receive the appointment in place of Mr. Van Devanter?

But contradictions are the order of the day here anyway. Almost at the very moment that Mr. Roosevelt was sending word triumphantly to the country that he had in effect forced one of the conservatives from the bench because Mr. Van Devanter allegedly was too old—his age being 78—the president signed a bill just passed by congress at his request creating a special position of counselor of the department of state, to which he now appoints R. Walton Moore, former member of congress, who is 78 years old.

Leave for New York on Their Way to Europe

Shiocton — Mr. and Mrs. Paul Siefert, Shiocton, and Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Becker, Appleton, left Saturday by automobile for New York, and Mrs. William Kroeger, Shiocton; Mrs. Bertha Polasz, Stephentown; and Mrs. Frank Hubert, Kaukauna, left Sunday morning by train for New York, where the parties will meet and sail May 20 on the Hansa for Europe to visit relatives in Germany and to tour other parts of the continent. The party expects to return some time in August.

Miss Nellie Mc Dermott, county supervisor gave the tests. The teachers who attended were: Mrs. Gertrude Long of the village grades; Miss Alice Mc Laughlin of Cedar View school, Maple Creek; Miss Gertrude Lutz, Maple Corner school, Maple Creek; Miss Luella Tank, Golden Hill school, Maple Creek; Miss Rose-ella McCrone of Meadow Grove school, Deer Creek; Miss Genevieve McCrone of Coffey Bridge school, Deer Creek.

PLANTED FISH

San Francisco —(47)—Sixty-six years ago 12,000 young shad were transplanted from the Hudson river to California waters and two years later 35,000 more were transferred. Today shad is an important commercial fish from Monterey bay to the Columbia river and is found in lesser quantity from Mexico to Alaska. It cost the government less than $1,000 to do the stocking and commercial fishermen have taken in an estimated $400,000 as a result.

Farmers Improve Soils With WPA Lime and Marl

Quarries Operated in Every County in District No. 2

Farmers in northeastern Wisconsin anticipate a larger crop of alfalfa and other feeds this season than ever before, as a result of the lime and marl they have been able to obtain through the WPA and other federal programs, according to Mark Muth, Green Bay, director of the WPA district No. 2.

A total of 59,208 tons of lime have been produced and delivered to farmers in Door, Kewaunee, Manitowish, Brown, Calumet, Winnebago, Outagamie, and Oconto counties. Lime quarries have been operated in each of these counties by WPA workers. The WPA has paid the labor costs of preparing the lime for delivery to the farms.

Lime has been produced in Marinette and Shawano counties by excavating marl deposits found in lakes, rivers and marshes. WPA workers have produced 19,724 cubic yards of marl in these two counties.

One of the most serious problems faced by Wisconsin farmers is "acid soil" resulting from the depletion of the lime content in the course of years of growing crops. The WPA program has made it possible for many farmers to correct this condition by obtaining low-priced lime and marl to spread on the soil.

Winnebago county led the liming operations in this district, having produced and sold to farmers 12,985 tons of crushed lime.

Pupils of Leeman School On Outing With Teacher

Leeman—Miss Gwenivere Schlegel, teacher at the Leeman school entertained a group of pupils of the seventh and eighth grades at an outing and excursion Friday. They visited places of interest in Appleton, Kimberly and Kaukauna. Among the pupils attending, were Gladys and Margaret Thompson, Walter Blisterfeld, Ruel Falk, Royal Leeman, Neida Leeman, Rich and Reese and Sylvia Hall. They were accompanied by Miss Schlegel, F. R. Falk and Louis Reese.

The young people of the Four C club will hold their regular meeting Friday evening at the Congregational church. The Rev. E. Seger, pastor, will have charge of the evening's program.

Visitors over the weekend at the Oscar Nelson home were Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Heiser, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Moes and daughter Joan of Rhinelander, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nelson, Black Creek; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Fields, Appleton.

At the close of the high school in Shiocton last week the following students returned home for the summer vacation: Dorothy Strong, Wesley Toole, Earl Theed, Donald Strong, Alice Eberstadt, Leigh Spoeher, Elroy Bergsbaken, Franklin Burgen and Raymond Carter.

A marriage license has been issued to Miss Myrtle Fields, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fields of this place, and Elroy Stilen of Deer Creek.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

The Issue Reaches Broadway

It may seem rather a long way from the strip-tease to the packing of the Supreme Court. But any one who wishes to see the fundamental principles at issue can spare himself a lot of dull reading about the commerce clause and due process and fix his attention on what has happened and is about to happen to the theaters of New York.

There can be no doubt that modern burlesque had become a serious social evil. No one who has not actually seen and heard a recent performance can, I think, imagine the calculated obscenity of these shows. The thing that reached a point where for about twelve hours a day, in the central places of the city, perverted sexual excitement was being provided by high-powered commercial organizations. These performances are Open Violations of Law.

There can be no doubt, too, that these performances were an open and brazen violation of the law. There are scores of peddlers now in jail for selling erotica which are incomparably less provocative than the shows which were running openly in the burlesque theaters. But, for reasons which I do not understand, the law was not invoked against these panders. For years they were allowed to continue in business and to make big profits from crowded houses, and, of course, the longer they enjoyed their immunity the more daring they became. What had seemed shocking in 1936 had become commonplace by 1937, and the shock had to be increased to bring in the crowd.

At long last, after public officials had for years failed to make any effective attempt to enforce the existing law, or to strengthen it where it needed strengthening to make it enforceable, the scandal became intolerable to the churches of the city. They rose in their wrath and demanded the suppression of burlesque. Acting under very doubtful legal authority, the Commissioner of Licenses refused to renew the licenses of these theaters and they all have closed. Thus by the administrative act of one appointed official, and not by any recognized legal procedure, burlesque was abolished. A most desirable end had been attained. But it had been attained by a most undesirable method.

A Few Brave Voices Raised on Subject

While a few brave voices were raised on the question of principle involved, the general sense of the community was one of relief coupled with the feeling that in this instance the action of the commissioner was not in substance arbitrary. He did hold a hearing. The proprietors of burlesque did have a chance to offer a defense. Manifestly, they had no defense. And what they said in their own behalf was too preposterous to be dignified even as hypocrisy. But what came out of it all is the important thing. A bill, known as the Dunnigan bill, was hastily slipped through the State Legislature at Albany. In effect it endows the Commissioner of Licenses permanently with the emergency power he exercised against burlesque. Under this bill he can close any theater, burlesque or legitimate, and prohibit any performance at his own personal discretion. Whereas, under the existing law, there must be a conviction in a court before a license can be revoked, under the Dunnigan law the license can be revoked until a court decides that the performance does not violate the law. This is censorship, the very thing which free men have fought against since Milton wrote his famous tract on the licensing of printed matter.

Purposes of Sponsors are No Doubt Excellent Ones

The purposes of those who sponsor the Dunnigan bill are no doubt excellent. They are impressed with the scandal of burlesque. They are disheartened by the failure to regulate it by lawful means. They are pleased with the immediate results achieved by the arbitrary action of the commissioner. And so, thinking only of immediate needs and immediate results, they have enacted a law which legalizes arbitrary one-man authority over the American theater. They have enacted a law which in effect deprives playwrights, actors, managers, theater owners and audiences of their historic right not to be convicted and punished except in a court of law.

It is interesting to note that the Dunnigan bill passed the legislature. It is, in other words, the expression of the will of the majority of the elected representatives of the enunciated by the president's supporters in Washington that ought to settle the issue. The majority of the legislature should have the last word. Yet I am glad to observe that men who have been proclaiming the idea that there must be no limitations on the will of the majority in this congress are now preparing to fight to the end, no doubt to the highest courts of appeal, against the will of the majority of this New York legislature.

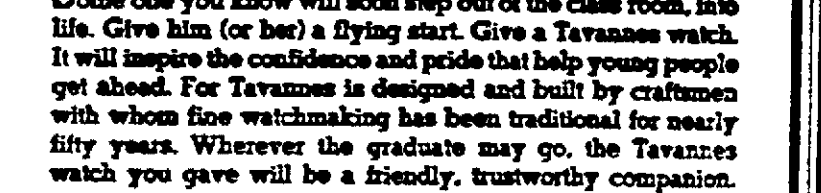

Here is Essential Issue On Which Stand is Made

Here in miniature, separated from any controversy between New Dealers and the economic royalists, we have the essential issue on which those who are fighting the president's court plan have made their stand. Here we can see how when men become intent on the correction of an evil and forget the principles of their government they set up personal and arbitrary authority in place of lawful procedure and then give it the sanction of random majorities.

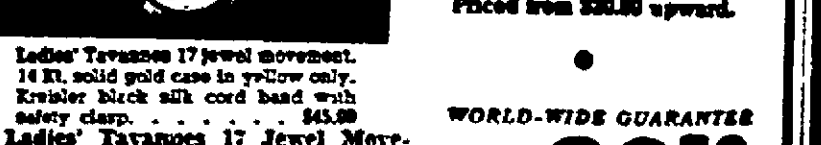

Because New York did not have the resolution to deal with burlesque by law, the whole American theater is threatened with the censorious dictatorship of one political appointee. That is how the rights of men are inadvertently and in a righteous way whittled away and ultimately destroyed.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

New York — The "snap" that lightning makes in your radio has been photographed, as it emerged from a cloud miles distant. Electrical waves, invisible to the eye, make the noise preceding the flash. The waves were discovered with an oscillograph by F. W. Chapman, and reported in Nature, the British official science journal. The pictures showed something new—sixty-three electrical waves in a single lightning flash. Previouly movie cameras have caught the visible lightning, and showed that what the eye sees as one streak of flame, may be dozens of "darts" or rivulets of fire. The new oscillograph pictures show that lightning is like the bursting of a dam, with invisible electrical "spray" flying in all directions. Tests showed that radio noise preceded the visible flash.

MAN SUES CITY

Lincoln, Neb.—(47)—Andrew Stahman wanted an elm tree in front of his home "topped," so he called the city parks department.

There wasn't anyone at home when the park department employees called, but they trimmed a tree they thought "needed it." Stahman filed a claim against the city for $500 damages, alleging the wrong tree was trimmed.

Park Commissioner Orin S. Copeland investigated, then said: "It doesn't make any difference. The tree involved is in a parkway, and belongs to the city."

THE EDUCATION OF MR. HOPKINS

It is now the purpose of the House Bill under consideration at Washington to prohibit rehiring next winter such workers as may leave the rolls of the WPA for private employment during the summer.

If this rule is finally adopted the Administration will have a consistent record of high impracticability in relation to its theories of handling the unemployed problem, the most expensive problem in America today.

The Administration may be assured that this is no inducement for the good citizens on the rolls to get off but creates another strong attachment for those described in scores of letters to newspapers of which the following written by a Door county cheesemaker to a Milwaukee paper is a fair type:

"I am a cheesemaker in a small country cheese factory. I work seven days of the week, totaling over 70 hours a week. I receive a wage which will barely pay my bills and I must scratch and save in order to keep my head above water. My wife must cook, wash and sew for three children, two of whom are of school age. Between times she must help me in the factory, which is hard physical work. She receives nothing for this extra work.

"Near me are families on relief. Boys are reaching manhood. I cannot hire any of the boys because they ask more per day than I am getting. Farmers are unable to hire any of them because they refuse to work for $40 a month. The father works three days a week on a relief project. He receives only $4 a day. Rent is furnished. Once or twice a week the relief truck brings a load of provisions. Medical attention is free.

"About the only work the family has to do is gossip around the neighborhood and complain how little they get from the relief. If there is a dance anywhere they are there full force. I and my working fellow men are too tired to go to dances or social gatherings, although we would like to meet our friends and forget our troubles for a while. We who are working must support not only ourselves but many who are just as able to work as we are."

The WPA rolls contain a great many men who are as anxious to get off as men can be. But they also contain a substantial number who may be called professionals and who won't get off until they are pried off.

The Administration has forgotten entirely that the matter of relief is not a matter for hard rules. It is a matter of individual inquiry in every case, else the genuine cannot be protected and the malingerers exposed.

A lordly administrator swinging around in a deeply upholstered swivel chair at Washington grinningly biting the thick end of a Havana perfecto while political figures from all over the country influence him by mere verbal reports gathered through the wildest hearsay that simply must be 80 per cent wrong, cannot expect to come any closer to being right than Mr. Hopkins comes which is very wrong.

There is nothing different in principle from the way our relief is handled than the manner pursued by the dukes of Burgundy through the Middle Ages. They called them the drunken dukes because there was so little sense to their methods. At times they were generous in their largess and at other times they tossed a stone instead of a crust of bread.

The Administration is certainly not intoxicated in the alcoholic sense but its abandonment of sound rules in the matter of relief is made complete by this harshness of them all, which is nothing short of a lifeline to the professional.

IRELAND AND THE CHURCH

The President of Ireland has proposed a new constitution for the Irish Free State.

Its most discussed feature is its attempt to remain in the British Commonwealth of Nations and yet avoid and escape any fealty to the British throne. It undertakes a daring piece of tight-rope walking trying to save the protection that lies in the shadow of the British navy and yet satisfy those old wounds and ancient wrongs that so many Irishmen cannot, and yet must, forget.

But the most singular thing about the new constitution is not the mentioned effort but rather the warm and affectionate arm of fellowship which the political radicals who presently rule Ireland put around their church. For the favorite church is named and specifically protected and all other religions are guarded against attacks or persecutions.

Here is a classic example of political radicalism with constant turmoil and upheavals and yet no burned churches, no slaughtered clerics, no outraged nuns, no brandished insults of fire and sneer to an entire population, none of those indecipherable and vivid scars.

De Valera and his followers have plainly shown the world that political radicalism and religion are not foes, and that when one seeks to destroy the other it is unnecessarily moving aside from its orbit because actuated by hatred, ignorance, revenge, or other improper motive that sees no possible way through without destroying in its blind anger everyone who may counsel moderation and justice.

The Irish example shows the difference between animal radicalism, commonly called communism, and political radicalism. The latter is always admissible if the majority supports it. That is merely a sound principle of democracy. The former may be said never to be admissible because it depends primarily upon the suppression of democracy in that a majority if given a fair chance to register their wishes will never support it.

FORM OR SUBSTANCE OF DISPLAY

Sometimes there is little difference between the trappings or panoply of democracy and autocracy. In other words clothes do not make the government any more than they make the man.

A special correspondent of the New York Times thus describes a military parade reviewed by Mussolini and the king at Rome:

"It was a parade that displayed Italy's military might, for there were detachments of every type of unit, from the half-naked gun-brandishing dancing Dabuts from Somaliland to the tank regiments with 141 light and medium Fiat's in line. But it was more than that. The display marked the end of an epoch in Italian history and the beginning of a new.

"For the march was from the past to the present, from the past of Augustus to the present of Mussolini, from the empire of 14 A. D. to the empire of the fourteenth year of Fascist rule.

"Famous trotting Bersaglieri, their black plumes glossy in the bright sun; golden eagles held high by Black Shirt legions, raising a can of He-hariste, soldiers from the Libyan sands marched to the shrill fife, the blare of brass and bugles and the tinkle of tambourines.

"There were Greek cyclists from Rhodes, Il Duce's own musketeers with black uniforms and black and silver rifles, mountain artillery packed on muleback, tractor and horse-drawn seventy-five, truck-drawn howitzers."

"This may now fairly be compared with a cabled description from London of the British empire in review upon the coronation of the new king:

"Then came the carriage of Canada's Prime Minister, escorted by Royal Canadian Mounted Police; Australia's Prime Minister and an Australian mounted escort; New Zealand's Prime Minister and a New Zealand mounted escort; South Africa's Prime Minister and a South African mounted escort; Sir Muhammad Zafarullah Khan, of India, and Dr. Ba Maw, of Burma, and an escort of Indian cavalry; Southern Rhodesia's Prime Minister and a Southern Rhodesia mounted escort; Northern Ireland's Prime Minister and a escort of Royal Ulster Constabulary; the Sultan of Negri Sembilan, the Sultan of Pahang and the Sultan of Trengganu and an escort of Sixteenth and Fifteenth Lancers; the Sultan of Johore and an escort; the Sultan of Zanzibar and the Amir Abdullah of Transjordan and an escort."

"The empire's strength was indicated by the display of field guns, tanks and detachments of infantry, aviators, sailors, marines, Dominion and Indian troops. The display gave the throngs a gripping sense of the empire's defensive power.

"Cheering was continuous, but swelled in volume when an unfamiliar detachment appeared, such as the red-coated Canadian Mounted Police or the Indian troops with gleaming drawn swords, tall Australians with feathers in their caps."

In America the people are accustomed to simpler ways, and yet well-disciplined troops, proud bands blaring forth splendid martial airs, grim or haughty personages, all help to create a vivid impression of a performance well executed whatever the object may be.

It might be added that German military precision has a hard time keeping step with French military precision; that both autocracy and democracy apparently strive for the same purpose, a mixture of impressing people with the grandeur and efficiency of the national effort and a painstaking purpose, so long as a parade is to be had, to have it the best sort of a parade.

Yet through all these ceremonies is born an enduring impression with many that the principal purpose is warlike or defensive, in which respect it is a reflection of the spirit of mankind which has at least a trace of warlike purpose, however much it is denied, that sometimes breaks from a slumbering ember into a devouring flame.

A box of mail stolen fifteen years ago in Edgewood, Tex., was found recently by workmen raising a bandstand. The box had not been opened and most of its contents were in perfect condition.

The Texas public safety department, armed with a new anti-narcotics law, is out to rid Texas of the unsavory label of the "worst narcotics state."

Jonah—

I remember way back when it used to snow and it was quiet, and still and things were calm and white and I used to look way up into the snowy sky and watch the flakes come down gently, drifting quietly, spiraling down easily, star-shaped, bar-shaped, crescent shaped and all shapes, and I had time to watch them and wonder whether this large one was going to wait into my eye, or miss me. Just gravity brought the flakes down at all. And you could tell how much it snowed by how much lay on top of the fence post, or the old rail fence. And now? When it snows there are no flakes. Pellets, propelled and wind-driven, blown like a blast out of hell, mixed with dust and mud from the dust bowl, howl by me, and Johnnie, watch your eye. Is it my disposition, suffering from ingrowing surliness, or is my memory at fault? Put me right, gentle reader, put me right. —Ezekiel Sodbuster.

When this was written yesterday, news had come of Justice Vandevanter's resignation, of his curt note, of Mr. Big's curt answer and the invitation to visit at the White House. I am pondering on that conversation right now. What possibilities, what possibilities!

Mrs. G. W.'s remark about kissing a freckle faced girl recalls the story of the two coeds that wanted to find out, without actually getting the experience, how it felt to be kissed by a man with a mustache, one would hold a tooth brush on her upper lip and then they would kiss.

I'm wondering if Mrs. G. W. is freckle faced. —Pickaway.

As enjoyable a sight as I have witnessed in many moons was the fraternity-sorority sing in front of Alexander gymnasium last Friday night. It is recommended for your list of things to be sure to take in next spring.

HOW HIGH IS YOUR TOPS?

Jonah,

Many examples have been printed illustrating the art of repartee but the following tops them all:

Two couples were driving along in a sedan when they approached a truck with a mule on the rear platform. The driver said, "Look, that fellow has a jackass in his car, too."

A male traveling companion came back with, "Yeah, but he isn't driving."

"No, he's in the back, too," the driver retorted.

YOU CANNOT LOSE YOUR MOTHER

You cannot lose your mother utterly. The skies may darken and her rare, brave smile may falter, but her spirit's victory will pierce the cloud of death. A little while and her courageous presence will be there. Bringing you comfort from the realms above; Bearing a light down the celestial stair To prove to you the glory of her love.

Before God's throne she intercedes for you. On some days every plan falls into place, And there is meaning in the word you do. It is because across infinite space Your mother smiles. . . . You back in that warm glow And clasp her hand more often than you know. (Copyright, 1937)

Personal Health Talks

DEGENERATION AND REGENERATION

How old are you, I mean in tissues not in years. If you are a bit stale, prematurely senile, if you feel chronically tired—aw, shucks, after all this is still a health column. Let us omit the symptoms and assume for purpose of instruction that you are a wee bit too old, aging too fast, drifting into the early stage of cardiovascular degeneration. Over-eating is probably an important cause of your plight, and fast eating is responsible for most over-eating.

Snatching a meal in a few minutes where at least twenty minutes is necessary for proper eating, is a habit that makes many individuals prematurely old. Alas, this bad habit is acquired at home in many instances, because in some homes parents fail to establish the arbitrary rule that every one shall remain at table at least twenty minutes whether he needs that much time to eat or not. This rule is an excellent one in the health training of children. Every member of the family must not only remain at table twenty minutes, but of course must be clean and properly dressed and use good manners while eating.

Check over these factors in your own case, reader. It will do you no harm to survey your eating habits. Hasty eating is first. Second is insufficient mastication of solid foods which requires mastication (meat, fowl, fish requires less mastication, of course, than vegetables, fruits, grains, nuts). Too often mastication is deficient because one or more teeth are decayed and neglected, or one or more teeth are missing and not replaced with functionally useful artificial teeth—often from motives of ignorance or hygiene or poverty or both.

Third factor of degeneration is the modern custom of using refined food for most of the calories in the daily meals—food which is ready to wolf and neither requires nor deserves mastication; food which has been robbed of most of its natural minerals and vitamins. What proportion of your daily diet consists of natural, unrefined foods from which nothing has been removed?

Social demands are responsible for much over-eating—food is urged upon us at all times of the day and night whether we need it or want it or not, and it requires unusual strength of character to avoid more or less overindulgence under these circumstances.

The habit of taking three meals a day or four meals a day, which is all right for active, growing children and for those who do honest work is not the best habit for many sedentary folk who would be better off with two or 2½ meals a day—breakfast and evening meal. Habit also leads many into eating dessert after a full and more than adequate meal—the least defensible over-eating. In the past year or two the equally bad habit of serving hors d'oeuvres or appetizers as they are ironically called, along with alcoholic beverages, just before a hearty meal, has aged many a victim five to ten years.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Hodgkin's Disease
What is Hodgkin's Disease? Does it affect children or adults? Is it contagious? Can it be cured. (Mrs. M. F.)

Answer—Chronic inflammatory enlargement of lymph nodes and spleen, commonly associated with a malignant condition of liver and kidneys, the cause of which is unknown. X-ray treatment is only Fatty Tumors.

What to do for fatty tumors and what causes them. I am 43 years old. Had three cut out ten years ago. Now have about 25 of them on different parts of body, some just apparent under the skin, one or two the size of walnuts. (H.D.)
Answer—The cause of simple tumors or malignant tumors (cancers) is not known. Only remedy for fatty tumor is surgical removal, which can usually be done under local anesthesia. Aside from the annoyance, and unsightliness of such fatty tumors, they are harmless.

Leg Cramps

Suffered tortures in bed every morning from leg cramps. Took calcium lactate as suggested in your column. Had marvelous results. The cramps promptly ceased. Can stretch my legs in comfort now when I awake mornings. Age 68. Had two stage prostate operation three years ago. Thank you for much comfort. (M.C.C.)

Answer—Does no harm in any case to try calcium lactate for such distressing leg cramps. Take ten grains three times daily, after meals for a week or so, from time to time. (Copyright, 1937)

Your Birthday

"TAURUS"

If May 20 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m. from 3 to 5 p. m. and from 9 to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 to 11 a. m., from 7 to 9 p. m. and from 11 p. m. until midnight.

There is a chance that something will happen, making this a red letter day for you. Do not cloth your movements in secrecy, for it may be a mistake. It is advisable for you to keep in contact with your home or office. Brevity may be the soul of wit, but it will also prove to be the basis of wisdom this day. You do not have to apologize for doing what you know is right, but if it possibly is going to hurt some person's feelings, at least be tactful about it. Give in whenever it is possible this day, if it does not involve some right principle, for stubbornness might foment trouble. Overcome pet aversions, for they may meet with little patience. The spirit of progress will be in evidence, and those who oppose it will display poor judgment. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who have reached a matrimonial understanding will find that frankness in most cases, will pay, and that conversation is not apt to accomplish anything.

If a woman and May 20 is your birthday, you are probably very impulsive, generous and inclined to be a bit too much of a flatterer. You may be rather restless. If you realize that on this day one has to be almost a specialist to succeed in any line of activity, your interest in your work may increase, and your chances for success greatly enhanced. Many people born on this date love to argue, which is frequently

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

The ultra-power minded gnomes in the government who have been working earnestly from beneath to bring about government ownership or control of the power industry have found themselves with a competitive problem on their hands when competition was what they sought to avoid.

It all comes about because Boulder dam and Bonneville dam, while started years apart, are to begin delivering real power at about the same time.

Whipping Boys

When Boulder dam was started in 1922, private industry was king and government was something people spoke of in hazy, distant terms. The result was that power development by the government was considered reprehensible at best. So power at Boulder was made the whipping boy of the project and given the job of carrying all the expense load. But 1934 brought a sharp change. Private industry had become the whipping boy. When Bonneville on the Columbia was started, something near half the cost was charged off to flood control and navigation. That meant cheap power and a nasty yardstick by which private power rates could be measured all over the country.

But Los Angeles within these latter days has discovered that it meant something else again. Cheap power at Bonneville than at Boulder proved of in hazy, distant terms. The result was that power development by the government was considered reprehensible at best. So power at Boulder was made the whipping boy of the project and given the job of carrying all the expense load. But 1934 brought a sharp change. Private industry had become the whipping boy. When Bonneville on the Columbia was started, something near half the cost was charged off to flood control and navigation. That meant cheap power and a nasty yardstick by which private power rates could be measured all over the country.

Back to Washington came the intellects of Los Angeles.

They argued that interest on the government money used to build Boulder dam should be cut from 4 to 3 per cent, since the government now can get money at the lower figure. Moreover, of the $115,000,000 cost of the dam, $25,000,000 was "allocated" to flood control. Unlike at Bonneville, power development was expected to pay this off. Why not defer this payment for 50 years, and knock off interest on the $25,000,000 altogether?

With these and certain other minor adjustments, Los Angeles argued, the Boulder power rate could be cut from 1.63 mills to the Bonneville rate of one mill.

The official findings are not out yet, but backstage comment has it that Los Angeles will be granted most of its requests. It will take an act of congress, however.

As to power, Portland has its own problems. Being close to Bonneville, it wants rates figured on a mileage basis. More distant Washington, Oregon and Idaho cities want a blanket rate. This would give them a lower rate, but cost Portland more.

revolver in the right-hand drawer of his desk. An O'Brien-Moore, editor of the Tucson, Ariz., Citizen also had a gun nearby to defend what he wrote.

It was the latter's name that sent us down to the bookstore for an extra copy of the book. O'Brien-Moore was the father of Erin O'Brien-Moore, who, as you might suppose, is the red-headed actress you admired so tremendously in "The Black Legion" and who is now making "The Life of Emile Zola" with Paul Muni.

We drew a ring around the enlightening paragraph and shipped the book on out to Hollywood to her. It will make a good addition to the library of this Irish daughter of so Irish a father. Incidentally, all the earlier O'Brien-Moore were editors in Ireland before they migrated to this country and became editors in Charleston, W. Va., and New Orleans.

Just before she got on the 20th Century Limited for the western journey I asked her how long she intended to be gone. "Only as long as it takes me to make a certain amount of money," she declared. . . . Apparently it hasn't taken her long, because "Zola" will be hurrying in about six weeks and she'll hurry back to Manhattan and her east side apartment, where a grinning, ebony maid, who hails from Georgia, is waiting to prepare endless menus of yams that drip bread, and fish, and cornbread and hams dressed in cider.

For this reason, Dan Anthony, editor of the Leavenworth, Kas., Times, always kept a

Woe-Beset Exposition in Paris Is Laboring Toward a Late Opening

BY HENRY CASSIDY

Paris—(AP)—The Paris exposition rising along the Seine has been praised by the People's Front government as a symbol of political truce—but criticized by the opposition as a "foyer of revolution."

Strikes and demonstrations, accidents and floods, have marked the laborious growth of the 190 pavilions of France and 42 visiting nations.

Originally planned for May 1, inauguration of the show, which will run to November 25, has been delayed to May 24.

'Never On Time'
The government has indicated its defense will be that the show far surpassed that originally planned, and in any case, it is a tradition of Paris expositions that they never are on time.

The Seine flooded some of the grounds during the winter, and the rains and winds of the wet spring caused minor accidents.

Laborers took part in several organized stoppages of work, once Feb. 11, to hear Premier Blum exhort them to greater efforts, and again March 18 in the general strike in protest against the Clichy riot.

Many foreign buildings were started late. Work on the American pavilion, on the left bank near the Eiffel tower, began only in mid-April.

Red Flags Stir Rumpus
The cabinet had its most serious exposition disputes with its own supporters among the working class. Carpenters erecting the two monumental towers of wood at the Place de l'Alma entrance, floated a giant tri-color, adorned with decorations of their own making, over each of the columns.

The flags bore the three parallel arrows of the socialist party on the field of blue, the liberty bonnet of the radical-socialists on the white and the hammer and sickle of the communists on the red.

Police took to the emblems, because it is an offense to disgrace the national flag, and the next day a whole army of red banners appeared.

The incident, petty at the start, became a test of the government's power to control extremists in its own camp.

Bases Hope on Visitors
A new quarrel loomed over release of the workers upon completion of the exposition. To prevent unemployment among the 22,000 men working on the pavilions, the Building Trades Union, donated a 10 billion franc public works program, financed by a new loan, despite a government stand against either further expenses or increased borrowing.

The government has pressed on with the work, hoping that once the visitors arrive, political passions will subside.

It counts, too, upon 400,000 Americans and millions of Europeans bringing to France a vast supply of the foreign exchange needed to help make up the deficit in the country's trade balance.

AN ANGLE ON THE EXPOSITION
Paris' famous Eiffel tower leans crazily in the background as the camera rides the roller coaster on the exposition grounds.

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood — Blonde Barbara Pepper began her screen comeback, most unusually, after her first important leading role in a pretty important picture.

Usually a big role—hers was in King Vidor's "Our Daily Bread"—means that a girl is on her way. That was when Barbara decided, for romance, to retire.

And then she didn't marry the fellow after all, and pictures looked pretty attractive. So she started over, in bits.

"It was the best thing that ever happened to me," she says. "Some people said nice things about my performance in 'Our Daily Bread' but it was really King Vidor's performance. I was too young to be a good actress then. Before that picture, I'd had only two lines of dialog to speak. Mr. Vidor gave me the job because he heard me, from the next roof, reading the script as I was preparing to meet him. If I'd had to take a regular screen test—I mean read it for him knowing I was reading it for him—I'd probably have been scared silly."

"Well, if I'd gone on just then I might have begun thinking I was pretty swell and really an actress, instead of realizing that all the credit belonged to Mr. Vidor."

In bit roles during her comeback she played gangsters' molls and wise-cracking store girls and finally a 14-year-old girl in "Miss." The latter role brought her an RKO contract.

"So now I've done a few very bad roles, one or two good ones, and a lot of in-between ones. Doing bits has given me time to crawl before walking."

"Today," she laughs, "I think I'm just a bit egotistical and a little bit of the ham is cropping out in me, but I know where I stand. I think I'm ready for the big chance, and when it comes I think I'll be able to handle it."

Barbara will be 21 on May 31. She was born in the Astor hotel in New York city (her father had his office there too) and she grew up pretty well surrounded by show people. D. W. Griffith once wanted to use her in pictures, and Gus Edwards had ideas for her in one of his stage shows. But father said no both times. Although the family moved away, it was those childhood days that brought her to pictures eventually, for it was through Edwards that she met Eddie Cantor.

She had left school in Virginia to become a musical comedy showgirl when the late Ziegfeld spotted her for "glorification." She worked for him and later for George White, and when Cantor was looking for girls for his "Roman Scandals" he invited her to make a test. That was where she spoke her two lines for the camera, her sole experience before becoming Vidor's leading lady.

Title and credit pieces on the movies are becoming fancier and fancier. . . . Especially good, was the spelling of names in blossoms on water, with quick break-up in the current, used for "Maytime."

Apostolate Will Name 11 Directors

Eleven new members will be elected to the executive board of Appleton Apostolate to fill the places of those whose terms of office expire this year at the annual banquet and meeting of the Apostolate at 8:30 Thursday night at Columbia hall.

The dinner will be in honor of his excellency, the Rt. Rev. Paul P. Rhode, bishop of Green Bay, who is president of the diocesan Apostolate and who will be the guest speaker Thursday night. Reports will be given by the various officers and chairmen of standing committees for the year during the business meeting.

A social hour has been arranged to follow the dinner and business meeting, and cards will provide the entertainment. Prizes which will be awarded the winners at each game have been donated by local people.

Letters were sent out a week ago to all members of Appleton Apostolate announcing the annual meeting and including a copy of the yearly report of the organization and its work during the last year.

See Movie At Meeting Of Guild

THE motion picture, "Cloistered," depicting the life of the Good Shepherd nuns in the convent in Angiers, France, will be sponsored by Monte Alverno Retreat House Guild when it shows June 1, 2, 3, and 4 at Appleton theater, according to a decision made at the meeting of the guild Tuesday night at Monte Alverno. The movie was not staged but was made by Robert Alexandre of the Pathe company who took the pictures right in the convent as the nuns went about their daily duties. It took five years to secure permission to make the movie as these nuns are cloistered and no men are allowed in the convent.

The movie, "Cloistered," has the endorsement of Pope Pius XI as well as many cardinals and bishops in the country, among them Archbishop Samuel Stritch of Milwaukee. Mrs. Robert L. Rechner is chairman of the ticket committee and her assistants include Mrs. Norman Brown, Miss Margaret Plank, Mrs. John Rechner, Miss Dorothy Kolitsch, Miss Mae Bartman, Miss Hilda Kitzinger, Miss Helen Marie Groh and Mrs. William J. Stier.

Miss de Jonge told of the various poets who have written about the Blessed Virgin including Chaucer, Dante, Boccaccio, Shelley, Wordsworth, Byron and others, and she read a number of the poems. She also told some of the legends of the Madonna which have come down through the ages. Benediction followed the meeting last evening, after which an open card party was held. Prizes at contract bridge were won by Miss Eda Roemer, Mrs. George Theiss, Basil McKenzie and Harry Landols, at auction by Mrs. J. W. Doyle and Mrs. Rufus Lowell, and at schafkopf by Miss Mary Schaefer.

China Exhibit On Display at College Library

An exhibit of Wedgwood china is now publicly displayed on the second floor of the Lawrence college library, in the lighted glass case there. The display will remain throughout the etching show recently opened.

About a dozen fine examples of full-sized dinner plates by Wedgwood form the major portion of the exhibit. These are examples of the famous bone china for which Wedgwood is known. Other items included are cream and sugars, flower holders, examples of the Wedgwood Jasper ware, and miscellaneous pieces.

Wedgwood china, perhaps the best-known English china in America, has been made since 1759. Josiah Wedgwood was the founder of the concern which is still considered among the finest in the world for the quality of its ware and for its design as well. The exhibit has been loaned to Lawrence college by the Treasure Box.

Only 95 in 100 Hands Require Careful Play

BY ELY CULBERTSON
(Copyright, 1937; Ely Culbertson)
If I had to choose between a careful good player and a careless expert, I would unhesitatingly choose the former as a bridge partner.
Of every 100 average hands ninety-five require only intelligent, careful treatment. I do not mean by this that such treatment necessarily will result in success. There may be bad breaks which would lead to the downfall of any player. What I do mean is that in only about 5 per cent of hands is superlative play required. This should prove that care is a much more valuable commodity than brilliance. The hand shown below, which figured largely in a recent team of four tournament, is a case in point.
North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Question: What is the proper opening bid on the following?
AKQ10 ♥ A109 ♦ A1096 ♣ K98.
Answer: One no trump. With eight honor cards the honor trick requirement may be reduced to three and one-half instead of four.

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's article.

At one table the bidding went as follows:
North East South West
Pass Pass Pass Pass
1 spade 2 diamonds 3 hearts 5 hearts
5 hearts Pass Pass Pass

The five no trump bid by South was the grand slam force, directing North to bid seven if he held two out of the three top trump honors. Since he had only one he properly signed off for six.

West opened the deuce of diamonds, dummy ducked, and East's nine was ruffed by declarer. The ace of hearts was laid down, and when the queen dropped declarer should have had a splendid picture of the defenders' distributions. East could be counted for six diamonds, and the drop of the heart queen marked him with four hearts. He, therefore, could have only three cards in the black suits.

Oblivious to this warning, declarer started to "investigate" the spade suit by laying down the king and queen. East ruffed the second and South found that he had "blown the contract." He could neither set up his club suit nor establish dummy's spades for sufficient winners.

Ordinary care would have dictated the proper line of play. The ace and king of clubs should have been laid down. If East's three black cards included only one club this would not hurt declarer a bit, since two spades in his hand would mean that dummy's spade suit was solid.

With dummy discarding a diamond on the king of clubs and East being forced to follow, the ten of clubs then should have been led and if West properly ducked, dummy's last diamond would go off. East would ruff but would be unable to take another trick. His best defense, despite the fact that both dummy and declarer were out of diamonds, would be another diamond. This declarer would have to ruff in the dummy. Then, returning to his hand with the spade, should ruff another club with the heart king. The clubs now would be established and all declarer would have to do would be to overtake the ten of hearts, draw East's last trump, and claim the rest of the tricks.

Thus, instead of depending willfully on a spade break (which certainly should not have been taken for granted on the proved distribution of East's hand), a little thought

Black Widow Spiders

A great deal has been said and written about the black widow spider during the past few years. The danger told about it has caused some persons to be afraid of spiders in general.

Time has passed, however, since the first general "scare," and we have found that dangerous as it may be, the black widow is no cause to put us in terror of the whole spider tribe. Millions of spiders are going about their business of spinning webs, and catching flies and other insects. Most spiders do little, if any, harm to human beings, and many of them help to rid the world of insect pests.

The full-grown female is the very dangerous member of the family. Her bite is likely to cause aching pains in the muscles inside half an hour. These pains may be followed by fever, and the limbs of the victim may be paralyzed. A person made sick by a bite usually finds it hard to breathe. Two weeks may pass before he grows well again.

Some hospitals have serum which can be injected into patients who are bitten by black widows. When the serum is used, it does a great deal to make the suffering less.

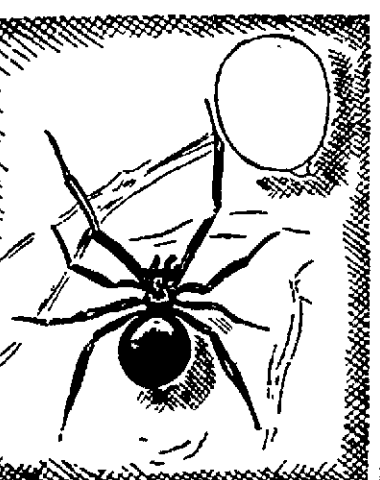

The full-grown female black widow may be known by the "hour-glass" red spot on the under side of her body.

Black widow spiders would increase in numbers far faster than they do if it were not for their "natural enemies." Certain kinds of wasps are known to attack and feed on these spiders. Field mice are believed to kill many of them, and chickens have been observed to eat them.

A black widow
It is well to remember those points, but black widows really are something to watch out for! Each female has a poison sac, and when the poison gets into the blood stream it will do damage. Several deaths have been reported, but usually the bite does not cause death—it simply brings pain and illness to the victim.

Drop for drop, the venom of a black widow is worse than the venom of a rattlesnake. The spider, however, can send only a tiny amount of its poison into the victim, while a rattlesnake injects many times as much.

Black widows are most common in southern parts, but they are

Gives Advice For Women Past Thirty

BY ELSIE PIERCE
MOTHER challenges this column. She says, "I like to read your column each day, but there's one thing I am puzzled about. You tell us so much of the sweet young things in Hollywood, in their teens and twenties, and how they manage to look their best. It ought to be easy to look well enough at that tender age. What happens when one has turned thirty, or forty. Does Hollywood turn one out as Page thirty of the birthday calendar is reached?"

With this letter in mind, I am particularly happy to give you flashes of my recent interview with Miss Broderick. At the time she was working eighteen hours a day, felt wonderful, and confessed that if it weren't for the good care she gives her body she could never endure the strain of making moving pictures and appearing before the microphone once a week. "A woman my age," she said, "has to give herself the proper basic treatment or else she will begin to break down, and once her beauty is gone, it is lost forever."

Miss Broderick finds that through her own prescribed exercise, she is stronger and more agile than she was twenty years ago. She feels that good health is first requisite to beauty, and fresh air first requisite to good health. Horseback riding is her favorite hobby. And she says she is very conscientious about rope jumping. She takes only 15 minutes each time and finds it very stimulating, bringing every muscle into play and not the least bit tiring.

Her Beauty Treatment
Miss Broderick thinks most mature women make two mistakes about make-up. They either use too little, or too heavy makeup. She particularly disapproves of the latter. Her own skin is cleansed carefully and thoroughly with lukewarm water and soap first. Then she never fails to use an ice pack which she feels is the most invigorating of all facial treatments.

In applying her powder, Miss Broderick uses a soft, downy puff and pats in on gently, then uses a brush to smooth out the surface. She touches her cheeks lightly with rouge, but indulges in brilliant shades of lipstick. "But," she adds, "I am exceptionally careful in making up my lips. You know how ugly a mouth can look when lines are drawn too liberally. I never paint my lower lip; just apply the lipstick to upper one and then press lips together. The color then follows the natural line of the mouth and is more becoming."

My complete new booklet "Reduce by Diet" (Booklet 201) is yours for ten cents. It covers the subject thoroughly. Send for it, giving your name and full address to The Bell Library, c-o this newspaper, 247 West 43rd Street, New York, N. Y.

CUT

background. For a time he gets on well enough with mother to attend to him and father looking on, but about his ninth year he begins to look toward father. It is time, then for father to come forward and for mother to retreat somewhat in the guidance and control of the boy. Father means something to his son that nothing and nobody else can ever mean.

All boys strut a little about their fathers. "You ought to see MY father do this and that," is the theme or boy-talk hours on end. The boy who can't break in with, "Huh, my dad could do that and not half try. You oughta see him when I fell into the river. Picked me out with one hand when I was going under the third time. He did."

To be in sound mental and physical health, at peace with his stormy world, a boy must be able to trot out a perfectly adequate father. A fighting terror is a boy in trouble. Look for the way to help him.

The alibi that the poor housekeepers give for their slowness is that they are not domestic by nature. That they hate the very sight of a gas range, and it just bores them to death to keep a budget, so they let things go. And they can't see for the life of them, why their husbands complain about the roast being burned, the potatoes watered and the biscuit more fit for amputation than for human consumption.

But these same women, who think that because cooking isn't their favorite indoor sport it justifies them in never giving their families any thing fit to eat, would not expect to get by with such a flimsy excuse in any other calling. They know that all work is hard and tiresome and monotonous; that no job is always to our liking; that every job at times gets upon our nerves and makes us want to throw up our hands and quit. But mighty few of us, except housewives, feel that we have a right to do it.

It is to be granted, of course, that not all women have a talent for domesticity any more than all women have a talent for singing or writing or acting in the movies. There are women who are born cooks who have only to pass their hands over a pot to turn out a dish that would delight the soul of an epicure. And there are other women who have a gift for order and cleanliness so that their houses are always spic-and-span. And there are other women who have to learn to cook and clean as they would any other profession.

But, fortunately, domesticity is an art that may be acquired. One does not have to be endowed with it by Nature as one does with a contralto voice or the genius of a Beethoven. Any woman who can read can learn to cook as well as a chef. Any woman who can drive a car can learn to manipulate a vacuum cleaner. And any woman who can count up to ten can keep up with the butcher bill.

If a woman is too lazy and trifling to make good on the job she undertook when she married, that's her

Dix Says Man Has Right to Expect Comfortable Home

BY DOROTHY DIX
A woman who says that she loves music, literature and art and loathes cooking and dishwashing asks me if I do not think that her husband is unjust and unreasonable in complaining because she is a poor housekeeper.

DOROTHY DIX
mony or to have taken cognizance of their own tastes, there might be some excuse offered for sloppy and shiftless wives. But such is not the case.

Every girl marries of her own free will and accord and because she wants to. Every girl knows that men marry for homes and that the woman who undertakes to make one for her husband is herself in for a lifetime of hard labor.

Every girl knows that upon the kind of a homemaker she is depends her husband's health, happiness and prosperity. For no man can be happy and contented in a house that is slovenly kept. No man can be healthy who is daily set down to food that would poison an ostrich. No man can accumulate any money who has a wife who, as the old proverb puts it, throws more out of the back door with a teaspoon than he can put in at the front door with a shovel.

Knowing these things, no girl should marry unless she has a domestic urge and unless she has made up her mind that she is going to play fair with her husband and work as hard to make a comfortable home as he does to support it. It is just as much the woman's obligation in marriage to try the bacon as it is the man's to bring it in.

The alibi that the poor housekeepers give for their slowness is that they are not domestic by nature. That they hate the very sight of a gas range, and it just bores them to death to keep a budget, so they let things go. And they can't see for the life of them, why their

Old Gardener Says:

BY E. I. FARRINGTON
It is possible to grow a temporary green lawn, which will persist throughout the summer, in three weeks' time. This is done by sowing perennial or domestic rye grass seed at the rate of eight pounds per 1,000 square feet. The area should be spaded and the top two inches of soil pulverized. A complete chemical fertilizer should be applied uniformly and thoroughly incorporated into the soil. After grading by raking, the seed can be sown. The soil surface should be kept moist until the grass is well established. Late spring and early summer unfavorable for the establishment of permanent lawns and the rye will make an attractive temporary lawn until the permanent grasses can be sown in the fall.

GOOD TASTE TODAY

BY EMILY POST

WHO SITS WHERE AT TABLE
Dear Mrs. Post: When guests at dinner are an even number of men and women, are the men seated at the right or left of the women?
Answer: The most important (or oldest) lady sits on the right of the host and the next most important lady sits on his left, then all the way around the table ladies and gentlemen sit alternately. The most important gentlemen sits on the right of the hostess. But at a formal dinner where people go into dinner two and two, each gentleman takes in the lady who sits on his right at table and this maneuver makes it impossible that the hostess go in to dinner with the gentleman on her right. Therefore she goes with the one on her left instead, except when the gentleman of honor is the governor or otherwise so very important that it is necessary that he not only sit on her right but take her in also. In this case the most unimportant gentleman and lady, who are seated in the middle of the table midway between the host and hostess but on opposite sides of the table, go in to dinner together. But after showing her to her place and seating her, he then takes leave of her and goes around to his own place on the other side of the table.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am giving a rather large dinner in a hotel in honor of a friend who is marrying soon. All the guests will be unmarried and each of the girls is especially interested in her particular boy friend who will be present. In such a case should I separate them at table as I would married guests? And what about my fiancé? Must he sit opposite me, way down at the other end of the table in the place of the host?

Answer: Seat each girl next to her "boy-friend," and seat your own fiancé next to you on your left. In other words, although husbands and wives are never seated together, engaged couples are—always.

Dear Mrs. Post: After an evening bridge party, when a light buffet supper is served, do you think the card tables should be taken down or be left standing so that people can take their plates back to them? I haven't any small tables standing around and much as you have written against serving on card tables after bridge parties, I believe you will agree in this case that it will be most sensible. And if you do agree, don't you think I should put a cloth on each table?

Answer: My objection is to having the card tables upon which everybody is playing, set with food while people are still sitting at them. When you have finished playing and the cards are taken off the tables, and the cloth is put down, this is quite all right and certainly quite convenient for your guests when expecting them to balance plates on their knees and to put glasses on the floor.

Here's Way to Help Out Boy Who Wants to Fight

BY ANGELO PATRI
"Our son, just past his ninth birthday, is a fighting terror. He has at least one fight a day and sometimes more. The instant he is touched, physically or mentally, up goes his fist. Today he was sent home from school because he punched a boy who brushed his arm as he passed him on the stairs."

"When I asked him why he did it he said, 'Why didn't he look where he was going? I'm not going to be shoved around.' Nobody shoved him. Nobody even thought of bothering him. But that is the way he is."

"He isn't a very good pupil, either. I have to help him with his arithmetic and spelling. He manages to pass, but that's about all. He is healthy enough, eats well and plays hard and sleeps all night through. I could get along with him if it wasn't for this fighting. What can we do with him to make him stop it?"

Usually, when we come across a boy like this in school, we find that he can't be able to live up to his picture of himself, and that makes him resentful and savage. We had one that gave us all plenty of trouble. He blackened eyes and reddened noses at every possible opportunity until he was put under escort. When we did that he was bad-tempered and pumpy and finally cried hysterically.

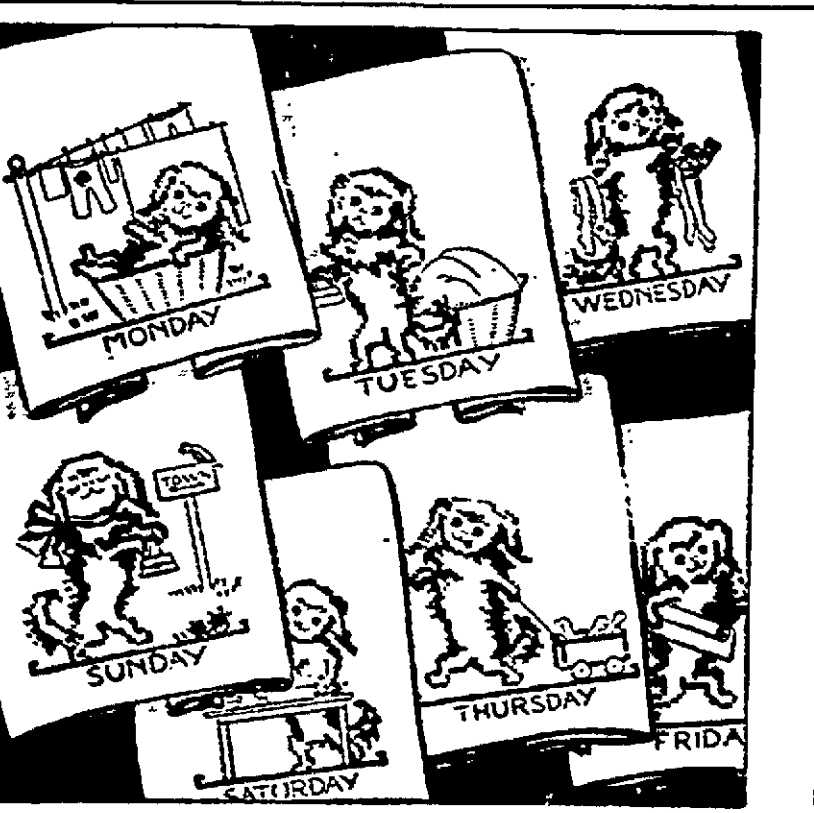

In time we found that he wanted to be a shining star among the athletes, but he was not fast enough. The physical director studied him and laid out a program of exercise and diet for him, and made him assistant manager of the base ball team. After that there were no more fights. He didn't star on the team, but he held a respected place and that satisfied him.

Something is troubling the boy who feels he must dominate the place with his fists. The only thing to do is to study him, try to win his confidence and get at the idea that disturbs his mind. As long as he feels himself less than he wants to be the trouble will continue.

Sometimes this difficulty is physical. He needs the care and advice that an understanding physician can give him. Sometimes he feels a great lack in his home. He hasn't the feeling of security there that a boy has to have. Maybe he thinks other children are loved more than he. Or worst of all, his parents are separated. Rarely do we find a perfectly adjusted child under that condition.

A boy needs his father in the County Poultry Business Keeps Pace With Others

Chickens on Farms in State Show Great Increase Since 1880

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) Madison—The Central Wisconsin district, which includes Brown, Outagamie and surrounding counties, is keeping pace with the rest of the state in the development of the poultry business, the latest poultry information circular of the state department of agriculture and markets reveals.

While the poultry population in the southern and eastern counties exceeds that in the counties of the Central district, the nine counties in that section, including Brown, Calumet, Door, Fond du Lac, Kewaunee, Manitowoc, Outagamie, Sheboygan and Winnebago constitute one of the important poultry production centers of Wisconsin the report shows.

Statistics of 1936, the latest available, show that the number of chickens on farms in Central Wisconsin was 1,392,000, divided as follows: Brown county, 232,000; Calumet, 228,000; Door, 184,000; Fond du Lac, 426,000; Kewaunee, 210,000; Manitowoc, 370,000; Outagamie, 324,000; Sheboygan, 597,000, and Winnebago, 223,000.

49 Per Cent Increase
The department reports that chickens on Wisconsin farms increased from 3,561,353 on June 1, 1880, to 16,198,000 on January 1, 1936, valued at $12,958,000. From 1931 to 1936 chicken numbers on Wisconsin farms increased about 4 per cent. Flocks are found on 68 per cent of all Wisconsin farms.

Hens in the central Wisconsin counties are producing a substantial share of farm income, the report also indicates. Egg production figures for 1935, the most recent obtainable, show that Brown county chickens laid eggs valued at $234,000, while the value of the total number of eggs produced in Outagamie county was $407,000. Neighboring county figures show: Calumet, $295,000; Door, $212,000; Kewaunee, $275,000; Manitowoc, $448,000, and Winnebago, $271,000.

Expect Insurance Companies to Fight Against Proposed Law

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau) Madison—Sen. Michael F. Kresky, Green Bay, is expected to have a fight on his hands Thursday when his bill to revise the state statutes covering auto liability policies comes up in the Wisconsin senate as a special order of business.

Kresky's bill, which would broaden the rights of recovery of claimants in auto liability cases, is being strenuously opposed by the insurance companies. Harold A. Wilkie, university regents president, and prominent insurance counsel is reported to have been working against the bill for weeks. Kresky said the measure grew out of a recent Green Bay court case.

The bill provides that the retention of information, the representation of untruthful statements, the concealment of relevant facts, or the reservation or lack of cooperation by the assured shall not defeat the right of recovery of any claimant provided that the claimant has not connived with the assured to such purpose.

League in Opposition To "Make-Work" Bills

The National Industrial Traffic League, Washington, D. C., is opposing measures such as the "make-work" bills, which it adopted, would place so great a financial burden upon railroads that the government would be forced to take them over, according to a bulletin received from the league by the Appleton Chamber of Commerce.

R. F. Bohman is chairman of the league's committee to prevent government ownership of railroads, the bulletin states. Bohman reported that "the threat of government ownership arises from continued inflation upon railroads of arbitrary increases in operating costs with no provision for increased revenues to meet these increased costs."

Among the bills being opposed by the league are the 6-hour day for railroad employees, government signal inspection and government tract

10 YEARS A HERO:

Decade Since New York-Paris Flight Has Failed to Dim Lindbergh's Fame

Lindbergh took off from New York May 20, 1927, and landed at Paris 33 hours and 29 minutes later. He is shown as he was greeted there by Myron T. Herrick, then U. S. ambassador to France.

Home, he toured the country in his "Spirit of St. Louis" in a campaign to make America air conscious. He visited at least one city in every state.

Charles A. Lindbergh

On May 27, 1929, Lindbergh married Anne Morrow, daughter of Dwight W. Morrow, U. S. ambassador to Mexico. The two men are shown together at a New York airport.

Mrs. Lindbergh, who obtained a pilot's license after their marriage, became her husband's flying companion. They are shown testing their plane for a flight across Canada, Alaska and Siberia to the Orient.

Tragedy struck the Lindberghs with the murder of their first child, Charles, Jr. The strain of those days shows on the flyer's face in this picture made during the trial which convicted Bruno Hauptmann of the crime.

Late in 1935, while Hauptmann awaited execution, the Lindberghs fled to England with their second son, Jon. There the one-time Lone Eagle is shown examining a new plane before flying to Copenhagen to demonstrate to a medical meeting the mechanical heart he helped invent.

This year the flying couple have continued their air tours with a leisurely flight from England to India. Touching North Africa, they stopped in Tripoli for a visit with Italo Balbo (left) who once led a squadron of Italian planes on a transatlantic flight to America.

Governor LaFollette Sees U. S. Progressive Party In War on 'Reactionaries'

Madison—(P)—The Progressive party celebrated its third birthday today with the assurance of Governor Philip LaFollette of Wisconsin, its titular head, future years would see the formation of a national Progressive party, which would sweep to victory over the "reactionary forces of America."

Governor LaFollette, in an anniversary statement last night, called for national cooperation in building of a major political machine.

"The Progressive party looks forward to a national existence and to a national political realignment," he said. "The time is close at hand for the formation of a new national alignment which will defeat the reactionary forces of America just as the Progressive party has defeated the reactionary forces of Wisconsin."

"That great task demands the united help and support of liberal-minded people in every walk of life and in every part of the United States. On this day, the third birthday of the Progressive party, progressives of America should take increased devotion to this task and to the cause of democracy and economic justice which it represents."

Practical Party

Governor LaFollette characterized the history of the three-year-old party as one of outstanding success "in the face of seemingly overwhelming obstacles."

"Three years ago today Wisconsin Progressives met in Fond du Lac and determined to found a new party—the Progressive party. It was a result of the demand and need of the rank and file citizens of the state for a new political alignment, one that would give them a real choice between progressive government and reactionary government."

"The Progressive party came into being during one of the most important periods in American history. Born amidst the depression and the turmoil that surrounds the transition between an economic age and another, it was dedicated to a program to provide orderly progress through democratic government and thus to establish better living conditions for all the people."

"In the two elections in which the Progressive party has participated since its birth it has made outstanding progress," LaFollette stated. "In the face of overwhelming obstacles it has swept forward to triumph with a determination which could not be denied. Already it has made a record which is in keeping with the great tradition of leadership which has characterized this state for almost half a century."

Confessed Slayer Collapses in Jail

Mrs. Tiernan Asks for Information About Wounded Son

New York—(P)—Sobbing violently, Mrs. Helen Tiernan, 28-year-old widow accused of the "babes in the wood" torch-axe murder of her daughter, Helen, 7, collapsed in the Riverhead jail today.

Dr. Albert E. Payne, prison physician, administered a restorative. He said her pulse was "extremely rapid" and she showed signs of "deep emotional exhaustion."

Restored to consciousness, she dozed fitfully on her jail cot.

Earlier, a prison attendant said, Mrs. Tiernan, begged for information on the condition of her son, Jimmy, aged 4, whom she also assertedly sought to kill last Saturday during a picnic outing in the woods of Brookhaven, Long Island.

"How is Jimmy?" she cried, according to the attendant. "I hope he's better. I hope he is taken in by some good family."

Police said the woman had confessed she attempted to "get rid of the children" so she would have more room in her shabby east side apartment to entertain her sweetheart, George Christodoulou, 29-year-old Greek restaurant worker.

Despite Mrs. Tiernan's denial that he participated in the killing, Christodoulou was arraigned before County Judge Richard W. Hawkins today and held as a material witness.

port. Senators King (D-Utah), McCarran (D-Nev.) and O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) formed the group.

They said they probably would be ready to report within about a week, which would start the senate debate about June 1. No one would forecast how long that debate might last.

Senator Pittman publicly voiced the view expressed privately by many other Democratic senators that Robinson, 64-year-old party leader, should be appointed.

"In 30 years in congress he has proven he is a man of integrity and courage and splendid legal attainments," said Pittman.

A dispute arose over Robinson's eligibility. Some senators held the

Driver Learns Where Not to Put Spotlight

Harvey Behnke, 701 N. Richmond street, learned in municipal court this morning that it is not the right place to throw the rays of an automobile spotlight.

Behnke pleaded guilty of improper use of a spotlight and was required to produce $3 and costs. A county motorcycle patrolman, who reported that his was the face which was illuminated, made the arrest.

'Get Into Right World', Bishop's Advice in Talk

Dr. E. L. Waldorf Addresses Lawrence College Students

That every young person should get into the "right world" was the advice of Dr. E. L. Waldorf, bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, at a Lawrence college convocation this morning. "Get into the kind of world to which you belong," the bishop advised Lawrence students.

"Find that world and you will find room to grow in it."

"There are three chief things that will determine the size of your world," he stated. "First come your interests. Every man should seek to enlarge his interests, not to curtail them. When a man tells me he has cut a certain belief out of his life, I tell him he can, but by so much he has limited his own world."

"The second thing is sympathy. To limit sympathies or to inhibit them is to limit the size of your world seriously. The last thing is faith. A man who limits his faith in his fellow human beings is doing himself perhaps the most serious injury of his life. Faith is necessary to triumph over each of our worlds, for there are as many distinct and separate worlds as there are people in it."

Dr. Thomas Kepler, professor of religion, issued the call to worship, and read the invocation at the convocation. The A Capella choir sang "Not Afraid" from Mendelssohn's "Elijah," and LaVahn Maesch, college organist, played the Prelude and Postlude for the service.

Michigan Advertising Fund Bill Is Approved

Lansing, Mich.—(P)—Governor Murphy today signed a bill increasing Michigan's appropriation for 1937 and resort advertising from $100,000 a year to $150,000.

Under the measure, $50,000 would be expended by the state administrative board and the remainder would be spent in equal portions by the West Michigan Tourist and Resort associations, the East Michigan Tourist association, the Southeastern Michigan Tourist and Publicity association and the Upper Peninsula Development bureau.

Reserve Army Officers To Hear About Canals

"The Development of Canals in the United States" will be discussed for Appleton reserve army officers at a meeting at the Conway hotel this evening. The speaker will be Ben Prugh, Kaukauna, manager of the Fox River Navigation company. The officers also will hear a report on the state convention at LaCrosse last weekend from Major A. O. Kuehnmstedt. A dinner at 6:30 will precede the evening's program. The meeting will be the last of the officers until next fall.

Summer repairs at the Appleton Vocational school will be considered by the board of vocational education at an adjourned meeting at 7 o'clock Thursday evening at the school. Routine business also will be considered. The board met last week to honor Charles D. Thompson for his 25 years service as secretary to the board and therefore dispensed with regular business.

Court Bill Foes Claim Roosevelt Measure Is Dead

view that the recent enactment of the Sumners retirement bill barred the appointment of any present members of congress. Others disagreed.

Constitutional Bar

The Sumners bill provided full retirement pay of $20,000 a year for supreme court justices. The constitution prohibits the appointments of members of congress to posts created during their terms, or the "emoluments" of which have been increased during their terms.

Pittman said he believed the Sumners act did not come within the constitutional prohibition. Senator Adams (D-Col.) expressed the belief that it did. President Roosevelt, at his press conference, said he had not studied the situation.

Some supporters of Robinson suggested, however, that if the senate regarded the Sumners act as a bar to the nomination of the Democratic leader, that law could be amended so that it would not apply to him.

Adams' construction of the law also would exclude another senator frequently mentioned as a supreme court possibility—Senator Robert F. Wagner (D-N. Y.)

Labor Factions Continue Fight For Supremacy

Engaged in Bitter Struggle To Win Recognition For Bargaining

By the Associated Press

Inter-union rivalry at opposite ends of the continent eclipsed the broader struggle between organized labor and capital today.

At Hollywood, Calif., striking members of the federated motion picture crafts asked unions to boycott films starring five members of the Screen Actors Guild.

The craftsmen on strike for a closed shop and union recognition, said the players' failed to recommend that guild members decline to pass picket lines at studios. The players, Robert Montgomery, Frank Morgan, Franchot Tone, Humphrey Bogart, and Edward Arnold, are members of the guild executive board.

In a telegram to the American Federation of Labor, the craftsmen threatened to invite the Committee for Industrial Organization to "move in" unless the A. F. of L. disciplines the International alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees' for recruiting members from our ranks."

Pittsburgh Drive

At Pittsburgh the Steel Workers' organizing committee, a C. I. O. affiliate, and the rival independent union, the Pittsburgh Workers' Employees association put the finishing touches on campaigns for collective bargaining supremacy in Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp. plants.

Both unions expressed confidence they would receive a majority of votes to be cast tomorrow in the biggest election thus far sponsored by the national labor relations board. To the victor goes exclusive bargaining rights.

Philip Murray, chairman of the S. W. O. C., shifted his strategy against the Crucible Steel company of America by declaring the union would be satisfied with a contract giving it collective bargaining rights for members only. In addition to J. and L. and Crucible, the Inland Steel, Republic Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, and Bethlehem Steel companies were objectives in the drive for contracts.

Cincinnati Is Center

A. F. of L. leaders who go to Cincinnati for a national conference next week will find the city headquarters for a regional C. I. O. office. A member of the C. I. O. staff on duty there said $1,000,000 would be available for organization work in that region.

In Washington federation officials discussed a proposal to double dues temporarily so as to augment the war chest in the contest against the C. I. O. The proposal will be tendered to the Cincinnati conference.

C. I. O. officials announced nearly 2,000 members of two Los Angeles men's clothing workers' unions would strike tomorrow for higher wages.

Tear gas which United Automobile Workers' union officials said was discharged by company police drove approximately 200 workers from the assembly department of the Thompson Products company, Inc., Detroit automobile parts manufacturer, last night.

Showers Due in City Tomorrow

Predict Warmer Weather Will Accompany Rain Thursday

Generally fair weather tonight will be followed by showers and warmer weather Thursday, according to the forecast of the United States Weather bureau. Showers are predicted for the west portion of the state tonight.

Maximum and minimum temperatures of 68 and 40 degrees were reported in the last 24 hours preceding 9 o'clock this morning at the power plant of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company. The minimum reading was recorded at 4 o'clock this morning. The temperature at noon was 63 degrees.

Charges Steel Firm Sends Its Private Police to 'Interfere' With Election

Pittsburgh—(P)—Chairman Philip Murray of the Steel Workers' Organizing committee charged today Republic Steel corporation had sent its private police heads into nearby Aliquippa "to interfere" with the collective bargaining election of Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation workers tomorrow.

Murray said seven Republic police and plant officials and 30 "hugs" of what he called the "gas pipe gang" of the corporation were concentrated in the steel town "to break up the election by force and intimidation."

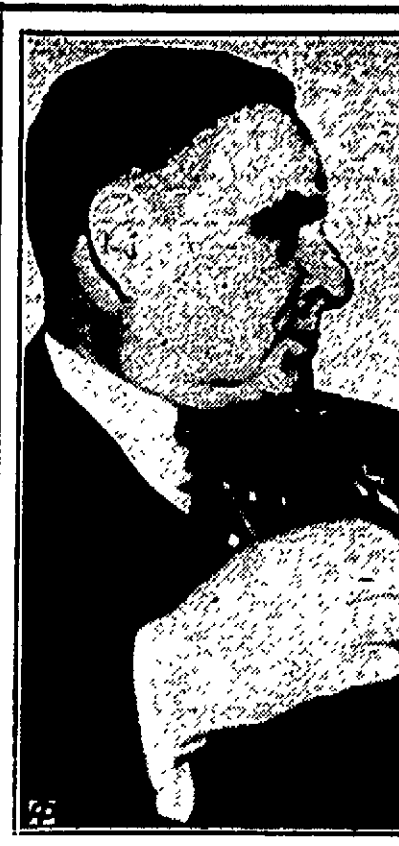

The steel union's charges were made on the eve of the largest labor-supervised election in the history of the country, which was agreed to last week by Jones and Laughlin in ending a 36-hour strike at its plants in Aliquippa and Pittsburgh.

Results of the election will determine whether the union is to represent all of the company's 27,000 workers as the exclusive collective bargaining agency.

The Jones and Laughlin corporation issued this statement in reply to Murray:

"Neither directly nor indirectly is the J. and L. Steel corporation involved in any attempt to wreck the election. If an attempt is being made from any source, whatever to wreck the election, it is not being made by the corporation, or with its knowledge."

"We went into the election under the Wagner act upon the assumption that it would be a democratic and peaceful way of settling labor organization issues. We also assumed that under the supervision of the national labor relations board the election would be fair and respectably conducted."

HE'S JOHN C. LEWIS

Resembling John L. Lewis, generalissimo of the C. I. O., in appearance and, like him, a former miner and from Iowa, John C. Lewis (above) is not related to John L. A former labor leader himself, John C. is the new soft coal commissioner.

Power Strike Is Begun in Michigan

All Industrial Circuits in Bay City are Shut Down

Bay City, Mich.—(P)—Consumers Power Co. employees have shut off electric power on all industrial circuits at noon today, signalling the start of a strike. Circuits serving homes were not affected.

The Consumers Power company sells electricity to the city, which retails the power to small consumers. The city circuits were the ones left intact.

Presses of the Bay City Times stopped at noon, in the middle of run. An ultimatum issued this morning by the United Automobile Workers of America, representing power company employees engaged in a wage dispute with the utility, had threatened a suspension of service at 12 o'clock to Flint and Saginaw as well as Bay City. The three cities, in eastern Michigan, have a total population of about 300,000.

A few minutes after noon, Saginaw and Flint still had power. Governor Frank Murphy at Lansing, who conferred several days ago with the contending parties, said he had warned them that "they owe it to the people of Michigan to settle their differences in peaceful conference."

Two Motorists Fined On Speeding Charges

Lester Schulz, Appleton, was fined $10 and costs in municipal court this morning when he pleaded guilty of speeding. He was arrested by Appleton police this morning and accused of driving 39 miles an hour on S. Oneida street.

Clarence Van Camp, Little Chute, who previously had pleaded not guilty of speeding, changed the plea to guilty Tuesday afternoon and was fined $10 and costs. He was arrested by Appleton police on E. Wisconsin avenue last Friday.

Man Pleads Guilty of Using Profane Language

Reid Englesby, Appleton, pleaded guilty of using profane and abusive language when he was arraigned before Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court this morning and was fined $10 and costs. He was arrested on complaint of John E. Gehring, Appleton.

SENTENCE DEFERRED

Arnold Miracle, town of Maple Creek, pleaded guilty in municipal court this morning of drunkenness but sentence was deferred by Judge Thomas H. Ryan until Thursday morning. Miracle was arrested in the town of Maple Creek by Sheriff John Lappen and the complaint was signed by Lester Boman.

Urge Quick State Action on Relief To Help Counties

Needy Northern Areas Must Know How They Stand, Is Plea

Madison—(P)—Two legislators and a representative of the Wisconsin County Boards association urged the state government yesterday to hasten its relief program so that destitute northern counties may know where they stand.

Assemblyman Reno Trego (P), Merrill, and Carl M. Nelson (R), Medford, asked the joint finance committee to report out their resolution requesting Governor LaFollette and officials of the state welfare department to advise the legislature of their plans.

Both said that some 21 counties, including their own, were promised state aid by the welfare department if they would continue on the county relief system, but have received no money since February.

Trego said relief costs under the present arrangements are "a burden on these counties, that they have no funds available, and that local merchants, who have been carrying the load, are finding it difficult to get credit at the banks."

"We want to know what is going to happen," he said. "We will have to get money or dispense with relief."

J. Thielens, secretary of the county boards' association, told the committee that under an arrangement set up when the federal government withdrew direct relief, the state welfare department completely cut off 50 counties so that remaining funds could be distributed to the other 21 which were in financial straits.

"The counties which were cut off made no objection," he said. "From last January to June it was estimated $1,900,000 would be needed to take care of the others, but it was found the total amount available was $700,000."

Favor County System

The speakers said the welfare department urged the counties to stay on the county system of administration on the promise that their expenditures would be repaid. They added that many counties, if state aid is completely withdrawn, will go back on the unit system and feel that considerable money can be saved on administration.

A finance committee members questioned the legality of any promises made by the welfare department, asserting that no agreement could be legal if it exceeded the total of available funds.

Counties mainly affected are Adams, Ashland, Barron, Bayfield, Burnett, Douglas, Florence, Forest, Iron, Jackson, Juneau, Langlade, Lincoln, Marinette, Marquette, Oconto, Oneida, Polk, Price, Rusk, Sawyer, Taylor, Vilas, Washburn and Waushara.

Green Bay Bond Bill Is Given Assembly Approval

Miller and Curry Named on Police And Fire Board

Niesen Appoints Pair to Replace Breier and Kromer

Kaukauna—Mayor John Niesen appointed Jacob Miller and Charles Curry to the fire and police commission last night at the end of a good old-fashioned council meeting in which the halls resounded once more with echoes of past rumblings on the purchase of a new $8,500 fire truck, the status, attitude, and general behavior of the commission, and the gone but not forgotten proposal to buy a police car. The two new men will replace William Breier and Arthur Kromer, Miller serving for five years and Curry for four.

Mayor Niesen struck out at the fire and police commission after the council showed it would not support Alderman Theodore Segelink's motion to go ahead and buy a car against the body's recommendation. "You build a fire truck so the insurance rates wouldn't be raised," the mayor said. "Then several weeks ago the commission had the audacity... yes, the guts, to stand before the council and say we didn't need the truck."

Refers To Meet
His reference was to the meeting in April, attended by over 300 people, when Mike Gerhan, chairman of the commission, stated that the council had not followed the commission's recommendations on the addition of new fire fighting equipment and advised against the purchase of a squad car. The council accepted the commission report and dropped the matter of buying the car, until it was renewed last night by Alderman Segelink.

"I wish I felt that night like I feel now," Niesen continued. "Then I was sorry for them... They throw their weight around... If the commission wants action, why don't they call in for volunteers from the city's young men like they talked about... I'll fight this to the end. Before this is all over Kaukauna shall know all the facts."

Twice during addresses to the council last night, Mayor Niesen paused to ascertain whether the press was paying proper attention. "Take down the important stuff," he said once.

No Arrangement
Talk on the police car arose when Alderman Edward Studd, chairman of the fire and police committee of the council, reminded the council that no provisions had been made for paying the expenses of the sedan operated for police purposes by Chief James McFadden.

Why wait for a recommendation from the fire and police commission on a car, why not go right ahead ourselves? Alderman Segelink said. "We voted nine to one last December to buy a police car. It would be a saving to the city to own one."

He then made a motion to that effect, which died for want of a second. "I for one will not go over the commission's heads," Alderman Raymond Nagel said.

"If you don't need the commission, why appoint them," Alderman Gordon S. Mulholland observed. "Why all this trouble over nothing? Alderman W. H. Cooper asked. "Let's forget it."

Sophomores Defeat Freshmen, 13 to 12

Kaukauna—The sophomore boys defeated the frosh, 13-12, in the opening game of the intramural softball league played Monday afternoon on the library field. Batteries for the victors were Kobussen and Burchberger and for the yearlings Andrejowski and Winn. The frosh girls, captained by Mary Alice Flanagan, won 7-6 from the sophomores led by Gertrude Renn in the second game of the season played yesterday.

Students Will Be Inoculated

Plan Treatments to Insure Against Smallpox and Diphtheria

Kaukauna—Children of preschool age will be inoculated against diphtheria and smallpox by the administration of toxin anti-toxin and smallpox vaccine in clinics held in this city next week. Miss Ceil Flynn, city nurse, announced yesterday. The immunization will be given by local physicians.

Four years ago children of preschool age ranging from six months to four or five years were immunized. Since that time, no case of either diphtheria or smallpox has been reported in the city. Miss Flynn reported, and no ill effects have resulted from the treatment. Improvements in technique since that time have been made so that now only one inoculation is necessary.

The treatments will be given to the children, probably about 25 of them, in the schools and will be free of charge. The date for the clinics will be announced later this week, Miss Flynn said.

"It is hoped to make this a permanent program and plans are under way at this time to immunize all children over six months of age who have not had this protection offered them in the past four years," the city nurse stated.

UNION MEETING

Kaukauna—A meeting of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, local No. 232, will be held at 7:30 tomorrow night in the Odd Fellows hall. It was previously announced that the meeting would be held tonight.

"I think he is interested in having you cancel this tax in full," the back taxes owed the city on this property amount to over $6,000. Alderman Mulholland was instructed to inform Towlesley that the "council wants more definite word on the company and what they expect to do with the property" before any promises could be made.

Set Up Board
Preceding all this, a new board of health was formed at the suggestion of Dr. C. D. Boyd, city health officer. Appearing before the council, the doctor proposed that Miss Ceil Flynn, city nurse, be made an ex officio member of the board, work under its jurisdiction and that a member of the board of education be named in her place.

Mayor Niesen appointed Mrs. Joseph McCarty on the recommendation of Alderman Cooper. The council committee on public health and education, Alderman Frank Femal, Cooper and Nagel, will make up the rest of the board.

Grant Extension Of Time to Firms Building Plant

General Contractors, However, are Criticized For Delays

Kaukauna—Three contracting companies working on the sewage treatment plant were given extensions of time to June 30 by the city council last night following a meeting of the board of public works.

The P. and D. General Contractors, Inc., the company doing the principal building, was one of the three granted an extension, but the resolution giving them more time contained clauses of frank criticism.

"The contractor's failure to properly organize the work until approximately three months after they had been notified to start resulted in very little progress during the months of June, July and August of 1936," the resolution read. "This also extended to the major part of the concrete and brick work into the winter months, causing further delay, and the contractors repeatedly failed to cooperate with the city and the engineers."

Started Late
The Oliver United Filters, Inc., installing equipment in the chemical and sludge building, was granted an extension. According to the report made by the board of public works, this company was to have completed its contract by March 1 but couldn't get inside the building to start work until March 10.

An extension was granted the Nichols Engineering and Research corporation, holders of a contract for installing the incinerator in the chemical and sludge building.

This company was scheduled to fulfill its contract on March 1, but the building was not ready for the installation of the equipment until April 20, the report of the board stated.

Vote $3,500 to Engage Four New Neenah Policemen

Will Hire Assistant Engineer to Improve Department Efficiency

Neenah—A sum of $3,500 was appropriated by the common council at a meeting in the city hall last evening for hiring four new policemen. A new state law limits policemen to eight hours a day, six days a week, and the aldermen acted upon recommendation of the fire and police committee.

Steps toward improving the engineering and building inspection departments was taken when it was decided to hire an assistant engineer and a part-time worker for field work in the summer. Aldermen have scored the inefficiency of the departments at meetings the last year and a special committee appointed by Mayor Edwin A. Kahlfahs at the last previous meeting reported that the city engineer and building inspector, A. G. Prunuske, was unable to carry out the work without assistance.

Divorce Jobs
Alderman Edward Schultz spoke for the committee, composed of Schultz, Andrew Andersen and George MacDonald, and recommended that the offices of city engineer and building inspector be divorced, and qualified draughtsmen be hired, an unskilled part-time worker be hired and a stenographer be provided for the city engineer and the city assessor.

Alderman William Schmidt said the city had suffered because building inspector duties had not been performed and said it was because too much was expected of one man. Alderman Andersen pleaded for immediate action to put the engineering department on an efficient basis. The clerical work will be arranged between a part-time stenographer now employed at the city hall, applications for the post of assistant engineer will be received by Harry S. Zemlock, city clerk, and the part-time field assistant will be hired by the special committee.

Receive Petition
A petition bearing 17 signatures was received from property owners on Fifth street from Nicolet boulevard to Hewitt street asking investigation of a barn on the Hans Christofferson property and claiming it was a menace to lives of children playing in it, describing it as an eyesore and stating it was a fire hazard. The petition was referred to the special building committee.

John O'Leary, city attorney, summarized the action of Judge Henry P. Hughes, Oshkosh, in describing the peddler's ordinance as confiscatory and unreasonable and suggested an amendment be drafted conforming to state fees for peddling licenses at $15 a day, was considered unreasonable. Mr. O'Leary said it was impossible to prohibit peddling but it could be regulated. He said the ordinance in its present form had kept dozens of salesmen out of the city but was not practical as a source of revenue and would not stand up in any court.

Sidewalk Survey
Alderman Carl Loehning reported a survey of sidewalks had been made and two types of bids for sidewalk construction and repair in Neenah this summer would be sought because no work had been received from WPA headquarters concerning financial aid. One bid will be for supervision and equipment with the city furnishing materials and labor by WPA while the other bid will be for supervision, equipment, labor and materials.

Permission was granted the Neenah Milk Producers to remove their terrace on S. Commercial street in order to provide more room for milk trucks. Alderman Loehning favored the change as a safety measure and said there would be no expense borne by the city.

Garbage Collection
The contract for collection of garbage in Neenah expires July 1 and the matter of preparing specifications for bids was referred to the police, fire and health committee. Alderman O'Brien suggested the contract be let on a four-year basis and that a minimum wage of 60 cents an hour be required.

Booster equipment for the fire trucks was referred to the same committee. The equipment would increase the braking power of the fire engines according to Alderman MacDonald, and would cost about $299 for the three trucks. Despite an objection registered during a previous meeting, the council ordered installation of a water main on Union street between Winneconne avenue and Monroe street. A petition for a street light on Chestnut street between Division street and Laudaud boulevard was granted.

Last Trains
Passenger trains coming into town at a 10 o'clock rate of speed were cited by Alderman Buschey as dangerous and the city clerk was instructed to communicate with officials of the Chicago and North Western Railway Co. He said motorists were

He is a member of the Congregational troop 14, Boy Scouts of America and has been in scouting for three years, starting his career with troop 4 at Appleton.

Scouts Plan for Court of Honor

St. Thomas Troop 3 Boys Will Receive Awards Tonight

Menasha—Twelve members of St. Thomas troop No. 3, Boy Scouts of America, will appear before a court of honor tonight to receive various advancements in rank and merit badges at St. Thomas church hall.

In preparation for the court of honor, the boys appeared before a court of review Wednesday. Assistant Scoutmaster Bob DeWilde together with troop committee members acted as examiners. The court tested scouts on requirements for the various ranks.

Edward Arpins, Allan Burnstein, Paul Butterfield, Jack Drawheim, Don Grode, and Bill Lawson were tested on tenderfoot requirements. Bill Robinson and Don Steinfert were tested for second class requirements and Thad Shephard, Richard DeWilde and George Banta, III, took tests for merit badges and third class rank.

ISSUE MARRIAGE LICENSES
(Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau)
Oshkosh—Marriage licenses were issued today by A. E. Hedke, county clerk, to Donald J. Reinhart, 143 McKinley street, Neenah, and Myrtle DeWilde, 222 Nicolet boulevard, Neenah; and to Richard O. Schweninger, route 2, Neenah, and Catherine A. Palmer, route 2, Neenah.

Not obeying stop signals of switchmen at the crossing near the Kimberly-Clark corporation mill and police investigation was assured. Six speed limit signs will be installed on S. Lake street.

Buses operated by the Orange line were said to be traveling on Walnut street from Winneconne avenue to Wisconsin avenue and Alderman Buschey said they should be compelled to take the authorized route down S. Commercial street because it was dangerous and a bad accident may result. A petition was received from the company to change its route but has not been acted upon.

Alderman Schmidt said the Congress street well would be equipped with a pump if enough citizens desired the water for drinking purposes. Arthur J. Brecklin, 710 Lincoln street, was granted an operator's license. A bid of $68 for redecorating the police station submitted by Harry Niles was accepted by the council upon recommendation of the committee on public parks and buildings. There were 29 accounts allowed amounting to $4,765.70 with a donation of $300 to the Visiting Nurse association as the chief item.

Influence Program
Declaring that a child's progress in school is influenced by his good physical condition, Mrs. Dudley traced the history of the summer round-up program which was inaugurated in 1922 by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers in the belief that the home is responsible for the health of the pre-school child and that the home can make no greater contribution to the school than a pupil ready to take advantage of what education has to offer.

Mrs. Dudley stressed the importance of special care of the pre-school child in an effort to prepare him physically for the difficult transition from comparatively sheltered life of pre-school years to the more rigorous regime of the schools.

Life Activities
Communicable disease prevention programs, summer clinics for correction of defects, child health conferences, home and individual health work and parent conferences, dental hygiene and dental clinic programs are a few of the health activities in which the Menasha pre-school children have the privilege of participating, Mrs. Dudley declared.

Parents, teachers and all citizens in general must also take cognizance of the growing danger rate due to accident and do something about it, said Mrs. Dudley as she quoted statistics that the hourly economic cost of deaths and injuries sustained in accidents was $390,000.

New School Being Built at Lowest Cost in Wisconsin

Superintendent Explains Rate Is but 25 Cents Per Cubic Foot

Menasha—Menasha's new high school, sections of which will be open for students Sept. 14 and Sept. 18, is being built at 25 cents a cubic foot, the lowest rate for any school in the state, Frank B. Younger, superintendent of schools, told members of the Nicolet Teachers association Tuesday evening at Nicolet school, as he discussed the lay-out of the new school following a discussion on character education which he contended was the most important objective of an educational philosophy.

The physical education department which is to be located in the right wing of the building is to be large enough for two classes of students, boys and girls, to carry on physical education activities at the same time, said Mr. Younger. At the front of the building, a band room with 13 smaller rooms for practice and instrument storage, will be located. The academic unit of three stories, will be in the section next to gym, extending back in a T shape. The vocational unit is built on the same plan and the auditorium which seats 1,000 will be in the left wing.

Activities Room
An activities room which seats 120 is to be located in the front of the building and will be used for activity groups and chorus and room which is to be inaugurated in the school next year. The vocational education activities, P.T.A. meetings, and other smaller organizations will use the room also.

Rooms for the school nurse and office rooms will also be located in the front of the building. The junior high school will be located on the second floor, the senior high school on the third floor and the social science department and art departments on the third floor of the academic unit. In the heart of the school, at the front of the second story, the library will be located, accessible from every part of the building. The first floor of the vocational unit will house the shops, the second floor the drafting and home making rooms. A lunch room is to be located on the third floor in connection with the home arts department.

Swimming Pool
Under the gym, a swimming pool, girls' locker and shower rooms, boys' locker and shower rooms, boys' and girls' room for bicycles and the boys' shower rooms will be located. The swimming pool and several other rooms are at present only plans because of insufficient funds but the place is there for them should the funds be available.

Parents attending the meeting asked questions about the new school following the explanation. Prefacing his discussion of the objectives of education, Mr. Younger gave a brief history of the progress in education during the last several years.

"Some of the factors that might be included in making a philosophy that will give youth the needed experiences for a well-rounded individual," said Mr. Younger, "are health of which Mrs. Dudley has told you, wise use of leisure time, social responsibilities, good academic background, home responsibility, vocational guidance, and character building."

Use of Leisure Time
Schools must solve the problem of wise use of leisure time, they must teach the responsibility of the privileges accorded them in the constitution of all the rich heritage above said, all of the rich heritage of our nation. We must teach students how to think, not what to think, by good educational curriculum. We must stress those qualities which should be developed to from persons who had no legal residence here. When these cases apply for relief from the local department. They are turned over to the county department which has no established legal residence in the county. Where it is discovered that non-resident cases have a legal settlement in the state, attempts are made to return them to that place. During negotiations, cases are supported here and costs are charged back to the home county.

No Legal Residence
Many non-residents have no legal residence anywhere and just drift from town to town. Under the law the county in which these people happen to be when in need must support them as long as they are in need. Fifteen or twenty cases are on record here at all times.

Mr. Remmel suggested that employers ascertain what cases which have lived here over a period of a year before employing him and said, "The non-resident relief situation is becoming acute in the Twin Cities. There is no way to stop the influx of people, however, it is imperative that their opportunity for employment be lessened if we are to reduce the number of local unemployed. Each employer should check the time a man has lived here before he is employed. Men who have lived here less than a year should not be employed if no labor is available. Immediate practice of such procedure in employment would result in considerable saving in local relief costs."

Non-Resident Relief Situation Becoming Acute in Twin Cities
Menasha—Despite the fact that the Twin City relief load is lighter now than it has been in the last three years, a recent survey of the case load shows that non-resident relief cases are becoming a real problem. Urban Remmel, director, said today.

Business conditions and the employment situation have improved and still non-resident relief applications are being received here, he said. Figures compiled by the director show that in the last two years an average of one application per week came from non-residents. Among 192 non-resident cases which have been cared for here in the last four years, there have been 68 singles and 124 families representing a total of 471 persons. A total of 26 of these cases have come directly to the Twin Cities from other states including Illinois, Minnesota, Michigan, New York, Idaho, California, Indiana, Montana, Colorado, Maryland and Iowa. The balance have come from other countries in the state.

Keep Records
In Menasha, where numbered records have been kept for the last four years, a total of 892 applications for relief have been received. Of the total, 105 cases lived in the city less than a year when they applied for assistance.

In Neenah the percentage of such cases is even greater. Of 541 cases which have applied for relief, 87 have come from persons living in Neenah less than a year. Percentages show that one ninth of all applications for relief in Menasha and one sixth in Neenah have come make an individual a worthy member of a family. We must teach girls how to buy for it, to become women who spend the "dollar-me." "But the foundation of our entire course of study, our arts and sciences, all the relationship between pupil and teacher, pupil and pupil, is character building. Hour by hour, day by day, the character of a child is developed. The school has become more conscious of the problem of character building. "Education now realizes that every class every extra-curricular activity, are opportunities for the development of characters. Ideal of service are developed, social happiness, honor, trustworthiness, sense of responsibility are stressed throughout the school life. "Without character, what will it avail one to be a strong, healthy citizen, with a job and a hope?"

Wheat Moves West
"What's the trouble? Has this happened before?" You will recall that 30 years ago the city of Neenah had seven large flour mills and that the surrounding area was one of the outstanding wheat producing regions in the state and nation. In 1869 a certain flour mill sent to Minnesota for two carloads of wheat. That was the beginning of the end for this section of Wisconsin. The wheat fields moved west and the flour mills moved with them. The paper mills took their place and dairying came in. "Part of the trouble is that the land in the valley area is the highest priced agricultural land in the state, that the taxes are the highest in any given area and that labor costs are absolutely prohibitory."

Rapid Strides
"The worst trouble is that long hard trucks and good roads have made it possible to secure and deliver 2000 milk from clean farms at a low labor cost. Refrigeration has also made it possible for the southern regions of the nation to make rapid strides in dairying. A good refrigeration plant can be set up down south for as much as it costs to build a 10 mile horse. Cows can be pastured 12 months a year in contrast to four months here. Wisconsin can keep its place but as sure as wheat left this state, dairying will leave the Fox River Valley within 15 or 20 years unless some terrific changes are made. Many farmers in this area are already selling their cattle and some are going in

Cites Need for Changes In Agriculture if Dairy Industry Is to Survive

Neenah—Depression-caused shortage of privileges for youth must be made up before they become adults if the future of social institutions is valued at all and drastic changes must be made in agriculture, if the dairy industry, as we know it in the Fox River valley, is to remain, declared A. S. Mac Arthur, member of the Neenah Advancement association survey committee last night as he outlined some of the survey findings to substantiate the seriousness of his statements at the Fraternity club in the Methodist Episcopal church.

Declaring that the basic principle behind the Neenah survey was to determine how the depression had affected the local youth and the farming areas surrounding the city, Mr. Mac Arthur outlined the organization of the committees of volunteer workers. Sixteen people comprised the youth survey committee and about the same number the agricultural committee. Farmers and local people together a University of Wisconsin agricultural school professor, the Winnebago county agent and county superintendent of schools constituted the personnel of the agricultural committee. Two university professors worked with the citizens on the youth committee.

Few Graduates
During a study to determine what type of young people between the ages of 18 and 25 were applying for work at the local employment office, the youth committee of which Mr. Mac Arthur is a member, found that 61 per cent of the 644 boys between those ages, were not high school graduates.

"Twenty-five years ago that would not have been serious. Today it is critical. Where will these youths be 30 years from now? How can they enter a competitive life without the opportunities and possibilities of at least a high school education?" asked Mr. Mac Arthur.

"Of the 383 girls registered, 45 per cent had not graduated from high school. Another interesting finding was that of the 214 girls who had graduated from high school, 70 per cent expressed preference, on application blanks, for maid and factory jobs. The boys who were high school graduates but stated their preference for truck driving and factory jobs."

Forced to Accept
"This is not serious if their preference is really true but what is the case is that the young people have listed preference for jobs which they think they can get. By sheer economic necessity, they have been forced to prefer those jobs."

Mr. Mac Arthur stated that the committee found that the most seriously affected institution as a result of the depression, was the home which had gone through terrific periods of reorganization during the last several years.

"We planned to make a home problem study to learn the problems of the home when dealing with the young folks between the ages of 18 and 25," he said. "To that end we tried to organize study groups of from 12 to 15 parents. The project had to collapse because we couldn't get the parents."

Continue Study
"However, we will continue our study and try to determine exactly what problems the depression years have brought youth, make the facts known to church, school and youth agencies in order that a united community effort can be made to make up the shortage of privileges. We must do it."

"If anyone had told me a year ago that the dairy industry as we know it in the Fox river valley would have to go through some terrific changes or get out of the valley, I would have said he was crazy. But it's true. The problem is a critical one for the city of Neenah and it is mighty important for Neenah to do hard thinking about it."

Farmers in this locality are up against critical problems, so much so that the United States department of agriculture has ceased to list a good deal of the agricultural land in the valley as good agricultural land. It is known as the Fox-Winneconne urban property.

Funeral Services
Neenah—Initial matches in the Twilight league will be played at Ridgeway Golf course at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon. About 40 persons have registered and the week-end competition and a buffet luncheon will be served in the evening.

Denney Working Hard With 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 5th Place Winners

LAWRENCE college track and field squad this week is pointing for the annual state college tournament at Beloit Saturday afternoon where it is a heavy favorite to repeat as champion. The other schools will be Beloit, Carroll and Ripon.

The optimistic attitude of Viking followers isn't shared by Coach A. C. Denney who is working with boys who have placed second, third and fourth in meets to date, in the hopes that they'll crash through with unexpected points.

Denney has first place winners or potential first place winners in numerous events but he appreciates that Carroll and Beloit will be primed for the meet and are going to make tough competition and cut in heavily on the points. Therefore the desire to qualify as many men as possible.

Saturday's program for Lawrence athletes at Beloit also will see the tennis and golf squads competing against other college teams. John Schmeier and Paul Strange, because of their Midwest double victory, are slated to win the event at Beloit.

Highs Prime for Relays
Appleton High school track squad is eating, sleeping and dreaming relays this week as it prepares for the annual Fox River Valley conference relay carnival at Manitowish Saturday. Six relay squads have been organized and even Coach Joseph Shields is having a tough time remembering the combinations.

Appleton is pointing for the half mile relay and the 440-yard relay but probably will have to let the other squads battle for honors in the medley, two-mile, shuttle and mile relays.

The Terror half mile relay team of Sadler, Cohn, Sellers and Bixby has turned in some of the best time in the conference this year but Green Bay East also will be strong and so will West. Coach Tom Hadden of East originally was scheduled to run against Appleton this week in a sort of dual relay meet but he changed his mind, all of which makes Coach Joe Shields suspicious of Tom's strength.

Wildcats Win Big Ten Golf Crown

Badgers Fourth; Bill Plotz Fourth in Individual Play

Chicago—(AP)—Bill Plotz, University of Wisconsin sophomore, finished fourth with 307 strokes yesterday as Sid Richardson, Northwestern, won the Big Ten individual golf championship with a 72-hole total of 301.

Seventy-two hole scores of Wisconsin's entrants were:
Bill Plotz, 73-75-78-81—307

Grimes Trying to Sell Dodgers to Scribes, Fans

CHICAGO—(AP)—Big Burleigh Grimes is out to make baseball's hardest sale—his Brooklyn Dodgers to fans and writers alike as a hustling, able ball club with no daffiness tendencies.
"I know I inherited something when I became manager," said the former pitching star as he sent his team against the Chicago Cubs. "I inherited a club which was expected to do crazy things in the field and at the plate. But I think that in another year or so—maybe the end of this season—Brooklyn's won and lost standing will make everyone forget that daffiness reputation."
All Grimes hopes to accomplish this season is finish a notch higher than the seventh place occupied by the Dodgers at the windup of the 1936 campaign. He feels pretty good

Dis Has Sore Thumb But Says He'll Toss

St. Louis—(AP)—Sore thumb or no sore thumb, Dizzy Dean will hurl against Carl Hubbell in today's Giant-Cardinal "game of a century." Red Bird manager Frank Frisch declared.

Dean exhibited a taped right thumb yesterday.

"I burned a little hole in it lighting a cigarette in Pittsburgh," he said. "The sulphur from the match stuck to the flesh. If that thumb feels like it does right now I will not be able to pitch Wednesday's game."

"That's a good alibi," a bystander suggested.

"I don't need no alibis," Dean retorted.

THE WEEK'S GAMES

Tuesday—Post-Tuttle 5, Fox River 4.

Wednesday—Machines versus Atlas.

Thursday—Coated versus Woolens.

Friday—Machines versus Fox River.

THE Post-Tuttle softball team was outhit by the one-sided margin of 11 to 4 last night in an American league game at Roosevelt school, but managed to make use of every scoring opportunity to top a 5 to 4 decision and its second straight win this season. The defeat was the second straight for Fox River. Both teams had three errors.

Howie Branchford opposed Eddie Mitchell on the mound. Howie fanned two and walked five and hit a home run; Eddie fanned ten and walked three. Womser and Lloyd of the losers hit doubles.

The Post-Tuttles started their scoring early when they counted four runs while Branchford was trying to make his fast ball behave. Des Schade fielded out to open play but Sternard walked, followed by O. Strutz and Kelly. Then Wilbur Strutz singled and two runs scored. Strutz scored along with Kelly on wild pitches.

Fox River came back with three runs in the second when Wegner singled, was sacrificed to second, Branchford homered to Roosevelt street. Ted Van Wyk flied. Murphy singled and scored from first on Womser's double.

The Post-Tuttle got what turned out to be the winning run in the third when O. Strutz singled, was forced at second by Kelly who went from first to third when W. Strutz grounded. A play was made for Kelly at third but the ball was thrown wide and Annie scored.

Fox River counted in the eighth after two were out. Wegner singled, went to third on Lloyd's double and scored on a wild pitch. Lloyd went to third on the toss. Branchford was walked purposely and Ted Van Wyk breezed.

New York Getting Sold On Young Tom Henrich

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK—(AP)—Afraid New York has seen the last of young Tommy Henrich for a spell. That kid is one sweet looking prospect. He can run, throw and larp that leather. Mel Ott's protracted batting slump has everybody baffled. Bob Pastor gave a fine account of himself before the mike when interviewed by Sid Ziff, sports editor of the Los Angeles Herald-Express, a few nights ago. Papers out that way say Al Johnson has guaranteed Lou Ambers $30,000 to go west for a title fight with Al's Henry Armstrong.

Jeckies are among the most superstitious. At Belmont park last week Mrs. E. D. Jacobs bought a new set of colors for little Jimmy Stout. He flatly refused to put 'em on. Said no jack had ever donned

Dean and Hubbell Clash Today in Biggest Battle

Both After Sixth Win This Year; Macks Down Tigers, 8-7

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, Jr., Associated Press Sports Writer
BARRING a last-minute change of heart by Manager Bill Terry of the Giants or interference by the weather, baseball's battle of the century is scheduled today when New York's Carl Hubbell faces the Cardinals' Dizzy Dean on the pitching mound.

It's a natural. "Squarepants" is shooting for his sixth straight victory this season and his 22nd in an unbroken string that began last July. The great Diz was beaten after five great efforts this spring, but he was superb in victory and he's out to make the fans forget that one licking.

Dean's new teammate, Lon Warneke, set the stage for today's scrap with an eight-hit flinging job that beat the Giants yesterday, 4-3, in the first game of their western tour. The defeat dropped the Giants into a third-place tie with the idle Brooklyn Dodgers.

After spotting the New Yorkers a two-run lead in the first when Jimmy Riddle followed Joe Moore's double with a home run, the Cards opened fire on Slick Castleman with Johnny Mize's second-inning homer, tied the score, then won in the seventh when three hits and an error produced two more runs.

Warneke's feat found handsome compensation in his burly and New York Yankees' Darryl Kile (Cy) Blanton and Rookie Spurgeon Chandler pitched the Pirates and Yankees, respectively to fine victories.

Bucs Down Phils
Pittsburgh's league leaders turned back the Phillies, 2-1, while the Cards and Chandler shut out the Chicago White Sox, 4-0, to remain hot on the trail of the Athletics.

The A's turned to slugging to top Detroit's Tigers, 8-7, and keep their clutch on the American league lead. Chubby Dean socked a homer with two aboard in the eighth to give Philadelphia its one-run margin.

Blanton handcuffed the Phils with six hits and eight strikeouts. Chandler duplicated the six-hit flinging feat and drew some fine support which included Lou Gehrig's second four-base belt of the season.

The hitters held sway in all other American league games. A ninth-inning single by Catcher Wally Piatek sent in the run that enabled Washington's Senators to beat the St. Louis Browns. In Boston, where the Cleveland Indians turned back the Red Sox, 7-4, Lynn Lary hit five-for-five for Cleveland and Manager Steve O'Neill sent six Indian hurlers to the mound, among them Bob Feller, making his first appearance since he hurt his arm in his first game. He was yanked after walking one man on five pitches.

Filmdom Stunned; Crosby Horses Win in Five Races

BY HOMER MCCOY
OLLYWOOD (AP)—The horses that race under the colors of Bing Crosby suddenly seem to have forgotten who their owner is—they are winning.

This has caused gasps of amazement among rail-birds, film people and close associates of Crosby. The crooner-actor, himself, can not understand it.

"Nothing whatever has been changed in the systems of conducting the Crosby stable," he said today. "They lose for years, and now they win. I simply can't account for it."

"They have been well fed and trained well, and suddenly they decide to win all at the same time."

Crosby has had five winners at Agua Caliente in the past week. Another horse placed.

Critics suggested the Crosby horses hated companionship. One way to be alone on a race track was to fall far back.

Race fans got used to seeing the Crosby entry sauntering alone, gazing with casual philosophy at the cloud of dust ahead.

After his sudden success Crosby admitted wistfully: "I only wish that I had backed my judgment at the mutual windows, but I overlooked this angle. The horse had almost convinced me, as they had others, that they didn't know how to win."

Elated with his horse racing fortunes, Crosby is depressed about the showing his frog, Double or Nothing, made last Sunday at the annual Mark Twain frog derby in Angel's Camp, Calif.

In the main event, Double or Nothing exhibited the lethargy of a paper weight. Then in a jumping contest with Bob Burns' Amphibian, Mountain Music—Double or Nothing won.

Crosby consequently lost, since Burns had wagered to prepare Crosby a dinner of sowlberry and turnip greens.

"I'm afraid he'll insist on my collecting," said Bing shuddering a little.

knocked the shirts off two Oshkosh pitchers to chalk up a 15 to 6 victory last Sunday in the Northern State opener at home.

Elmer Jacobs led the Bays' attack with five safeties in six trips to the plate. One of Jacobs' drives was a home run over the left field fence and it is probably going yet.

The Sox second sacker also made a double play unassisted.

Fritz Wagner, former Badger star, is doing everything asked of him around first base for Oshkosh. Wagner got a pair of doubles in the Green Bay game displaying a major league brand of ball around the initial hassock.

The fans at Manitowoc are beginning to smile again as the Ships just in the victory column at the expense of Kimberly. Lefty Schoepke pitched the 6 to 2 for Harry Kallies' hirelings and he wasn't hardly ever in trouble.

Manager Al Borths shook up his Shipbuilders' battle front and the revamped line up clicked on all nine. Manitowoc was hitting in leadoff, the Sox spelled defeat for Ladou, former Oconto star, now hurling for Kimberly.

Bowman, the Papermakers' first sacker, had a 500 day at the plate, getting two hits in four times up and scoring a run. Bowman is batting in the clean up position for Kimberly and it looks as if he is right in the proper place.

Irish Wall, well known in Eastern Wisconsin circles as an outfielder, made his debut as an umpire last Sunday at Manitowoc. He worked the bases with Paul Herr behind the rubber and they got along with but few moans.

Two Rivers, 1936 champions, will raise the pennant on Sunday before the Green Bay game. The baseball fans of the Cool City are planning quite a celebration with a band concert at the game, speeches and everything.

The first "grudge" battle of the season is carded for Kimberly where the Papermakers will cross bats with Little Chute. These clubs have been rivals for years and there is always a lot of extra action when they tangle.

Board of Control Leader Gives Talk On Child Welfare

District Representative Speaks at Legion Auxiliary Meeting

Clintonville—Miss Ranette Meyer of Oshkosh, district representative of the state board of control, talked on child welfare before the American Legion auxiliary and its invited guests Monday evening at Knights of Columbus hall. Miss Meyer divided her address into four parts, namely: What is Child Welfare? How is it administered? What does it mean in Waupaca county? How can the Legion auxiliary assist? The speaker cited a number of cases of neglect among children which had been investigated by her in her territory, which includes about seven counties in north central Wisconsin.

The program also included the reading of an article on "Poppy Day" by Mrs. A. V. Chamberlin, who will act as chairman of the Poppy Day committee in this city. Miss Alice Faust, city librarian sang two vocal solos, "To Planners Field" and "Will You Remember" from Maytime. She was accompanied by Mrs. W. H. Finney, who also played for the assembly singing.

During the business session, which preceded the program, plans were outlined for the annual poppy sale on Saturday, May 29. The flowers will be sold by girls of the Junior auxiliary. Several members of the local unit plan to attend the Eighth District Spring conference at Waupaca Thursday, May 20. Mrs. Arthur Steenblock, president, and Mrs. S. J. Tilleson, secretary, were named delegates to the conference with Mrs. J. H. Stein and Mrs. W. T. Luedke as alternates.

The Legion auxiliary will sponsor a home talent entertainment in the form of a radio broadcast at the Clintonville armory Wednesday evening, June 2. The affair will be staged by the Universal Producing company, Iowa, which will send a director to Clintonville to select talent and direct the rehearsals.

The meeting was concluded with a lunch served by Mesdames A. V. Chamberlin, John Ewer, Leo Kesting and Edwin Hanger.

The birthday anniversaries of Mrs. J. D. Cotton and Mrs. James Long were celebrated at a party given by a group of friends Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. E. A. Miller. A dinner was followed by three tables of bridge. High honors at each table were won by Mrs. Cotton, Mrs. Long and Mrs. Meta Folkman.

Women of Riverside Golf club will hold their first tournament of the season Thursday afternoon, May 20.

Mrs. Harold Oik has returned to her home in this city after a week's stay in Fond du Lac, where she was summoned by the illness of her mother.

Mrs. Frank Wetmore is spending several weeks in Two Rivers at the home of her son, Roy Wetmore, where she is recovering from an operation for a cataract on her eye. Mrs. Wetmore underwent a similar operation on the other eye last winter at the Two Rivers hospital.

Dr. W. H. Finney, Richard Milbauer, Roger Marston and F. A. Spearbraker of this city, Dr. Frank Mulvaney of Marion, and Dr. V. F. Marshall of Appleton are spending this week at Crane lake in northern Minnesota on the Canadian border.

The party is occupied on Dr. Finney's large house-boat, which during their stay will cruise on a chain of lakes, some of which are located in Canada.

More Than 150 Pupils Immunized at Waupaca
Waupaca—More than 150 pupils from the first to the sixth grade were given protection against smallpox and diphtheria Friday in the first program of the kind ever attempted by Waupaca schools. An additional number were given toxoid or vaccine according to protection previously received.

The majority of the children from the first to sixth grades have now been vaccinated or inoculated, but it is the aim of the authorities that the same protection may be offered another year to the balance of the pupils including newcomers.

The new athletic club setup nicely and the success of the ball club can be attributed to the cooperation of fans who hold membership in the new organization. The club will sponsor all sports.

John Coppes, who has been in baseball for years at Kaukauna, thinks his 1937 club will have a lot to do about the Northern State league flag. Baseball interest is running high in the Electric City and everybody should profit.

Eldon (Skimmer) Becker has returned to the fold at Green Bay and the veteran outfielder should help solve Manager Bob McLean's garden worries. Not so many years back, Becker ranked with the leading swainsmiths in the circuit.

Forsters Plan Night Contest for Friday
Forster softball team will play a night game Friday with the Menasha Merchants of the American City league. It has been announced by the Forster management. The game will start at 8:30. Sonny Filz or Joe Hiebel are expected to take the mound for the Forsters.

Delay Shipment to Permit Return of Zeppelin Victims

Clintonville—The Four Wheel Auto company withheld shipment of several trucks consigned to Oslo, Norway, so that victims of the Hindenburg disaster could be returned to Germany on the S. S. Hamburg, sailing on May 12, on which the FWD trucks originally were to be shipped from New York City, it has been learned.

The company secured space on the S. S. Hansa for May 19 for its trucks. The delay of a week was made so that the victims could be returned to Germany as soon as possible.

As soon as it became known that the German government desired its dead returned, the FWD manufacturers immediately canceled shipment of their trucks so that funeral services at the New York docks would not be interrupted, and so that the cargo space assigned to them on the Hamburg could be used for the caskets bearing the Hindenburg victims.

69 Members Attend Last Club Meeting

Committee Chairmen Named for Next Year's Activities

Clintonville—The Junior Women's club of this city closed its season with a banquet Monday evening at Hotel Marston. Covers were laid for 69 members, the tables being decorated with candles and cut flowers. At this meeting, each club member learned the identity of her "capsule sister." Early in the year the names had been placed in capsules and drawn by the various members, after which each one did favors or sent gifts to her "capsule sister" at different times during the club year without disclosing her identity.

A program was presented at which Miss Doris Johnson was toastmistress. She called upon club officers for short talks.

Officers are Mrs. George McCauley, president; Mrs. John Buchrens, president; Mrs. Edwin Schmidtke, corresponding secretary; Miss Helen Silverwood, recording secretary; and Mrs. John Korka, treasurer. There was group singing and vocal solos presented were "Forgotten" by Mrs. Donald Olen and "A Perfect Day" by Mrs. Forrest Schaefer. Bridge followed with prizes awarded to Mrs. Walter Sievers, Mrs. Kenneth Spearbraker, Miss Lavonne Sheldon, Miss Jean Stanley and Mrs. Eric Deser.

During the world's fair in Chicago in 1933, Carr accompanied two friends, Frank Stout and Graet Curran, to Chicago. Unbeknown to Carr, the men had entered him as a caster in the fly tournament. Having left his rod at his home at Rural and unable to purchase one in Chicago, the rods having been bought up by the first class casters who had entered the tournament, Carr was compelled to make a rod of pieces of bamboo. In spite of that handicap, he placed second among the 130 contestants, throwing 109 feet while the winner threw 110 feet.

WPA Dance Revue to be Staged in Auditorium
Waupaca—A WPA dance revue which will include more than 100 participants is scheduled for Friday evening at the high school auditorium, under the direction of Miss Eloise Quimby, supervisor of recreation of Waupaca county.

Chief of Police John Bernady, was reappointed weed commissioner for the coming year. The board will meet at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon to look over a new location for the transformers.

Kimberly—The village clerk was instructed at a special meeting Monday evening to write to Village Engineer A. E. McMahon for information concerning construction of joint and independent sewage disposal plants, and for estimates on the amount of money which would be involved in the construction in each case. The village is considering possibility of constructing a joint plant with Combined Locks.

In a recent communication the state board of health sketched the situation as it pertains to Kimberly and pointed out that definite progress is being made in the general program to abate sewage pollution on the lower Fox river. The local project is the only one in the lower valley on which no conclusive action has been taken, and the state board requested that the village engineer complete and forward plans in triplicate not later than July 1 of this year.

Suggest Joint Project
In the meantime, the state board requested that officials of the village of Combined Locks be contacted concerning possible arrangements made for the development of a joint sewage disposal system. A copy of the letter has also been sent to the engineer.

A program of repairing streets will begin in the village Thursday morning which includes curbs, jobs, graveling and oiling and other repairs that are needed. Three county graders will be in the village for about four days breaking up streets. Pine, Wilson and Washington streets will be included in the turn-over work.

Despite the fact that a number of stray dogs in the village already have been shot, the board still is receiving complaints. A village ordinance provides that all dogs must be tied up from April 1 to Oct. 1, inclusive. It has been reported that licensed dogs also are running loose. After some discussion the board tabled the question for about ten days. Stray dogs are shot by the chief of police immediately. If the situation does not improve during that period, a dog catcher will be appointed, who will hold the animal for five days for the owner to claim.

Winfield Krostue, Scandinavia, former member of the county board, was a business caller at the courthouse Tuesday. Mr. Krostue is now project director from the WPA office at Stevens Point.

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

SYNOPSIS: Eve Mannersfield manages to forget gay Denny when she learns he is to wed wealthy Mitzi. Resuming her aunt's baking business, she finds contentment in her beloved old house and orchard. "Uncle" Henry and serious little Judge help her run the place. They adore Eve. So does George Cleveland, her steady dependable neighbor. But he tires of waiting and becomes engaged to Ellen Walton the same weekend that Eve realizes she really loves him. Watching his house one night she sees fire, runs to wake George. In the smoke, struggling with crazy Lance Seymour, she loses consciousness.

Chapter 40
EVE ADMITS HER LOVE
EVE was lying in the shelter of the trees near the pool when she became conscious again. her head on a rolled up coat. George's coat, under her cheek. She opened painful eyes to see him in his drenched shirt sleeves, anxiously bending close, wetting her forehead. Nobody else was near. She could see a red gleam through the clump of trees and hear the shouting of firemen.

"Your work..." she said vaguely. "I got all the records for you!"
"Eve, you might have been killed."
"Might I?" she said it dreamily. "But you're safe, and the records. That's all I care about." She would not have said it if she had been entirely herself. She realized what she had admitted when he caught her close to him.

"Eve, you love me. You love me." She could not pretend any longer. She was too tired. She said weakly. "Yes, I do love you. You shouldn't have made me tell you."
She could smell the wood smoke in his hair, his cold rouged cheek against her face, his arms holding her strongly. She lay still, then suddenly she kissed him back, clung fast. This moment, this one, surely she could have—

Presently she tried to push him away.
"We mustn't. There's Ellen."
"I'll break with Ellen. I love you and by a miracle you love me, that's all that matters. You said you did."
"I do. I never knew I could love anybody like this. But you belong to somebody else. That's between us. It must always be. I can't hurt anyone who has been what she has been to me."

"Lance Seymour's dead?"
"The pool's full. Got some water off the pool!" A man shouted, close behind the trees. She stood up. A group of firemen were forcing a length of hose through the thick windbreak of pines.

"Not much chance, I'm afraid. George," the village fire chief said as they tugged.

And then Judge, half dressed and excited and smudged, was upon her, begging her to come home. Mattie said she had been knocked down. Uncle Henry said she had to go home and he was to take her.

She followed the wild-eyed child, faint and shaken. She said to the fire chief as she passed, "No hope?"
"No hope," George answered her and added savagely, "I'm glad." She knew what he meant. And she was glad too. Knowing that they loved each other, they could not bear to live side by side.

Even if she had wanted to sleep, there was no chance of it for the rest of the night. Mattie, John and Adriano had to be put up; there was coffee to make for hysterical Mattie and exhausted Adriano, there were the beds to make, the salvaged valuables and furniture to be piled on their porch by tramping firemen. Eve, feeling suddenly more awake than anyone on earth, forgot her aching head and worked with Uncle Henry. After everything was settled down, Mattie, too frightened and shaken to stop talking, sat on by the parlor fire with Eve.

"Lance Seymour's dead!" she told Eve, coming back after a word with a last burden-bearing fireman. "Millard Buck says he was dyin' when Mr. Cleveland pulled him off you, inside the house there, a beam fell or something. I guess he didn't suffer. Lance and you and the picture was in a heap inside the hall door. Well poor Lance, I guess 'twas for the best. But that house, 'twas a fine old antique. I can't give over that house burned up. Seems like it was my own workin' there all summer."

They Loved Each Other
At about nine Eve would have been shaken by pity and grief and excitement, as Mattie was. But nothing mattered now, what with the blow on her head and her ensuing weariness... Except the ribbon of fire that crept through her at George's name, and the wild delight of what had happened. George loved her as she loved him. Even though they couldn't have each other ever. They had told each other, they had held each other fast. They loved each other. She had it to keep lifting her above everything, forever.

The illogical happiness held her still next day. There was no time to think. Everyone in the village poured into her house or called her on the telephone; nominally to give orders, actually to hear about the fire and poor Lance's death.
"Son of magnate, himself well-known scientist, nearly burned to death," said the New York papers falsely and played up romantically, after giving Eve a fine or two, the dispossessed son of the old line, who had been killed while burning down his own ancestral home.
The older Cleveland, hurrying from Southampton, were at the inn where George was staying. And in the afternoon, excited and shaken and flushed, Ellen drove in.
"Eve darling! You'll have to tuck me in somewhere, can you? Eve, I'm so grateful to you!"
Ellen talked on in the new happy way. While Eve established her in her usual room. Of how had it would have been if George had lost all the charts and seedlines and calculations. Of what he would do—nobody could make him plan yet, she said. He seemed badly shocked, but Ellen was so busy because he hadn't been hurt that she could think of nothing else. . . . of how lovely Eve looked, how well Judge was. . . . None of it broke through the shelter of happiness that had surrounded Eve since she knew George came for her still.
Presently Ellen, too restless to stay far from George for long, was in the little car again, driving to the village inn, back to him.

Draney, still sincere, returns and asks Eve to marry him, tomorrow.

No Change Indicated in Butterfat Price Ratio

The department called attention to the "relatively low butter production," and said prices declined somewhat more than usual from March to April although quotations still are considerably higher than a year ago.

Little change in the farm price of eggs was noted during the period March 15 to April 15 although the market price declined.

Farley Changes Rules to Suit His Own Interests

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
Washington—Those Americans who are shocked by James Farley's blunt language in the supreme court matter seem to forget, if they ever were aware of, Mr. Farley's career as chairman of the New York Prize-fight commission. But to those who were close observers of the little ruled the cauliflower industry by whim and edict in those days it is no startling news that James would use political pressure to compel a change in the supreme court or for any other purpose which seemed laudable to him.

Pegler

When James was boss of the prizefight commission he and his two associates had a rule forbidding the presence of questionable characters at the contests of the lithe, lean bodies. Not only were questionable characters to be denied official credentials as managers and seconds but they were to be barred from the arenas even as cash customers in the interests of civility and the ideals of American youth which, as you may remember, was deriving lofty inspiration from the fairness and fortitude of such models as Jack Sharkey, Charlie Phil Rosenberg and Primo Carnera.

But James was also a practical politician on his way to decide the future of the United States Supreme court and there came a time when, invariably, at the big fights at the Garden, in the first row of seats, just around the corner from Jim's official throne, there sat a group of the most distinguished bootlickers and speakeasy magnates of the prohibition era. Mr. Farley knew them all and all about them, as, indeed, so did everyone in town, for they were very famous operators. But there he sat in his regular place and there they sat in theirs, week after week for years, notwithstanding Jim's own rule against questionable character whose presence might tend to impair the nobility of the sport. What harm they did or what good might have been done by heaving them out I cannot say but James had officially recognized some peril in their presence and there he was and they were there and there was the rule.

Primo Once Barred From Fight Ring for Life

Thus prepared for little departures from conventional enforcement, nobody was much surprised when, on the night of Primo Carnera's debut in the Garden who should come down the aisle with him to serve as counsel in his corner but Honest Abe Attell, the genius of the fake world series of 1919, and Jack Johnson, who had written a book stating that he had thrown his fight with Jess Willard and thus has cast a foul blot on that which is known as the fairest of the brawls in fistiana's crown, the heavyweight championship of the world? And by whose authority were they present but by that of Mr. Farley?

There came an occasion later when Old Satch, as Primo came to be called, was barred from pugilism for life on account of a highly unethical episode with one Bombo Chevalier in California in which it appeared that a pistol had been seen. But not long after that there came an occasion when James J. Johnson, Mr. Farley's intimate friend, held a charter on the Brooklyn ball-yard and Primo's promise to fight some one for him if Mr. Johnson could arrange amnesty. So, in due course, Primo's life term in banishment was commuted to the time already expired and Primo fought for Mr. Johnston in Brooklyn.

Mr. Farley explained his course in a few practical words. His friend Mr. Johnston had a chance to make some money.

"He was my friend," Mr. Farley said. "What good is a friend if he won't help a friend?"

Sportsmen With Criminal Records Served as Seconds

The million-dollar fight at which three sportsmen with criminal records served as seconds in the corners was not questioned on that account for the journalists of sport relaxations of the rules to suit special circumstances. Those who wrote sport then learned Mr. Farley's methods and something about his political morals which the statesmen and journalists of national politics have been learning gradually these five years and hesitate to believe even so.

The heavyweight championship was a beautiful and scared thing in that phase of Mr. Farley's career but he lightly tossed it into competition as a political favor to be won by a foul. He was not a boxer.

State Highway Board Will Hold Flood Hearing

Common Council Invites Commission to Come To New London

New London—A hearing on the flood conditions in and around New London and the controversies on the floodway course north of the city will be conducted at New London in the near future by the state highway commission as the result of action taken by the common council at its regular meeting last night. The council voted to invite the commission to a hearing after Curtis Rogers, chairman of the town of Liberty, appeared before the council and voiced the view of Outagamie county farmers concerning the flood problem. The date of the hearing will be set by the commission.

The farmers north and east of the city are as interested in the flood conditions as New London residents. Rogers declared, because the waters back up onto their lands and cause considerable damage and loss of time and money. The farmers have secured the cooperation of Senator Mike Mack, Rogers explained, and have made arrangements to have the state commission meet at New London. The council decided to ask Senator Mack to attend the hearing also. The city will bear all accommodation expenses while the state body is meeting here.

Special Meet
The council adjourned until next Tuesday evening when a special meeting will be held to discuss the numerous problems and finances concerning the Hatten Community Recreation park. Other questions which will be taken up include the creation and establishment of a light and water commission and the raising of the tavern license fee.

Referring to the park, Alderman Margraff reported that in general all costs have exceeded advance estimates and many unforeseen items have caused the costs to exceed the budget. Alderman Peyer reported that work on the pool is progressing rapidly and about $25 worth of silver paint is needed for the filtration tanks. The concrete pool has received two coats of special paint the last week and is ready for use, it was reported. Work is being rushed to complete the second half of the locker installations in the bathhouse.

Need More Police
A problem appeared in the police department as a result of a new law providing for an eight-hour day for policemen. The matter was referred to the police department and the police and fire commission to work out a schedule of hours and submit it to the council for adoption. The commission suggested a staggered schedule to allow the two night officers and two day officers to carry on without the additional expense of adding another man to the force.

The city treasurer was authorized to withdraw from the general fund and set up special accounts as follows: workmen's compensation fund, $1,000; electrical cemetery water fund, $1,000; industrial bonus fund, $3,600. These accounts were all provided for in the 1937 city budget and the sums are to be deposited in a savings account or invested in interest bearing municipal or government securities eligible for such investments.

Name Commissioner
Luther Cousins was appointed by Mayor Wendlandt and approved by the council as city weed commissioner. His duties in keeping undesirable weeds to a minimum will begin at once with a survey of the city.

The city fathers decided to send City Treasurer L. M. Wright to Madison Thursday and Friday to attend a school of instruction for municipal clerks, treasurers and finance officers. The course is sponsored by the Wisconsin League of Municipalities. All expenses are paid by the city. Last year City Clerk Mrs. J. C. Freeman attended the sessions.

The clerk was authorized to advertise for bids for a 14-ton truck with dual wheels for the city street department. Bids will be received until June 1. It is expected a new truck will cost around $1,000 whereas the old one now owned by the city is in need of repairs to the extent of $500. An aldermanic committee reported that repair costs to the truck the last year nearly matched the price of a new truck. Provision for the new vehicle is included in the budget for 1937.

Revoke Complaints
A complaint was heard concerning the howling of dogs in the city dog pound at night and the unnecessary roaring of outboard motors on the river early in the morning. Attorney Francis Werner appeared before the council in behalf of Fifth ward residents who complained of the noisy conditions during the night. Bids were reported on the river as early as 4 o'clock in the morning and dogs all over the neighborhood were aroused by noise in the pound, he said.

Name Electrical Inspector Under New Proposal

Council Provides for Inspection of All Wiring Work

New London—An ordinance creating the office of electrical inspector, and regulating electrical wiring was adopted by the common council last night.

The superintendent of the city light and water plant was made executive electrical inspector and will exercise all powers and perform all the duties of the office. Ray Thomas is superintendent of the plant. Construction methods to pass inspection must comply with recognized standard electrical codes.

Under the new ordinance it will be the inspector's duty to make a thorough inspection of all electric wires, poles, and appliances within the city at reasonable intervals and approve the electrical installations in any new building before a certificate of inspection is issued and electrical energy made available. All buildings in the city will be accessible to the inspector in the regular discharge of his duties.

The ordinance requires a special license of all persons, firms or corporations engaged in the business of installing, altering or repairing electrical fixtures. The initial fee is $5 and annual renewal $1. Men in the employ of licensed contractors are not required to have a license and provision is made for factory conditions.

Alterations or additions to existing wiring systems must first be approved by the inspector. Excluded from the provisions of the ordinance are minor repair jobs such as fixing flush and snap switches, replacing fuses, changing lamp sockets and receptacles, taping bare joints and repairing drop cords.

The board of public works will serve as a board of review to act on any petitions regarding the actions of the electrical inspector. Special permits may be issued where temporary service is required for certain work. Permits will be issued by the city clerk.

It must keep them fresh

THIS IS the essential test of all refrigeration, but the thing you take more or less for granted is that the refrigerator goes
Good Housekeeping Institute makes every refrigerator go
Whether mechanical, or ice, each refrigerator goes through a drastic engineering test to determine the effectiveness of the refrigerator to maintain the proper food temperature with economical ice or power consumption. The tests are made under scientific conditions, with sensitive devices that give accurate readings of all variations within the refrigerator.
Then each refrigerator is given a kitchen service test in which observations are made as to the way the finish stands up, the sturdiness of shelf spacing. The refrigerator is examined to see if it is substantially constructed and properly put together and operates properly.
Because of these tests Good Housekeeping can answer sincerely and accurately the thousands of readers asking questions about refrigerators. Because of these tests, more than two million readers have faith in Good Housekeeping and its advertising page.

Refrigerator . . . yet Saves You up to 40%*

"It must keep them fresh." That's the first thing any good refrigerator should do, as clearly stated above. Good Housekeeping says, "This is the essence of all refrigeration." The MW not only keeps food and vegetables fresh, but shows safe temperature within the refrigerator. 7 beautiful 1937 models! All steel, vides all the ice you need—lifetime porcelain interiors—exteriors of durable

Dulux for lasting beauty and ease of cleaning—2-way door lock. And, in addition to these, the MW gives you the Food Froster, found in no other refrigerator. Money can't buy a finer refrigerator than the MW—yet, you save up to 40%! As added proof of MW quality and performance, each model has been tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute and carries its famous Seal of Approval. There's an

U. S. GOVERNMENT BUYS
16,697 WESTINGHOUSE REFRIGERATORS
FOR 10-YEAR ECONOMY
Public Works Administration awards Westinghouse world's largest single order for refrigerators

When the Government buys refrigerators for its PWA slum clearance and low-rent housing projects, low operating cost is essential. Bids are based on initial price PLUS cost of electricity for ten years. On that basis, Westinghouse won the order for 16,697 refrigerators against other leading makes. Due to the Westinghouse Sealed-in Mechanism, thick Super-sealed Insulation, and other features for increased operating efficiency, Westinghouse could submit a lower over-all bid, even though others quoted lower initial prices for refrigerators. . . . If a Westinghouse Refrigerator will save money for the Government, it will save money for you!
"It's Ten-Year economy that counts."

High Blood Pressure can be reduced in many cases and symptoms relieved, says eminent physician

Dr. Frederic Danz, one of New York City, says that ALLININ Tablets often help to reduce High Blood Pressure, and that the continued use of these tablets at prescribed intervals helps to keep the blood pressure down. "By dilating the peripheral capillaries of the body surface, thus lowering the burden upon the heart." This is only one of the beneficial effects of the use of these tablets, says Dr. Danz. To get the full facts, send your name and address, and an extremely interesting booklet of facts and valuable information will be sent you free. Better still, give ALLININ Tablets a trial and learn for yourself how much they can help you.
